Lincoln holdup costs reach intangible level

By Jim Camden and Joe Hudson
Star Staff Writers

There is an old saying that crime doesn't pay And, while that may be true, crime certainly costs society and the victim

Determining the cost of crime is impossible Besides money stolen or goods lost, there is the cost of police, prosecutors, courts and jails which are borne at public expense

And there is the cost to the victim, which includes mental and emotional strain, new security systems and lost work time

Since 1975 there have been 161 robberies in Lincoln in which a total of $58 364 was taken Police have solved 88 of those robberies, slightly more than half, they have recovered $28,076 in stolen money, slightly less than half

But the cost of robberies exceeds the difference between the amount stolen and the amount recovered Police do not keep a record of man hours expended to solve robberies, although Asst Chief Roger LaPage said solving a robbery could take anywhere from one hour to a week For an unsolved robbery, there is no way to estimate how much time was used

The county attorney's office doesn't keep records on the time it takes to prosecute a specific type of crime, according to Bernie McGinn, chief deputy county attorney Each case is different, McGinn said, one suspect may plead guilty right away and go through the courts quickly, another may receive a jury trial

Actual case analyzed

To show what one robbery cost, The Star selected one in which the robber was caught, went through the judicial system and was sentenced The victim said he wished to remain anonymous for fear of being robbed again

On Nov 3, 1975, Carl B Knaff, 18, walked into a Lincoln liquor store with a gun, ordered the cashier to fill a paper sack with money and to lie on the floor

Knaff fled on foot with the money, claimed in conflicting police reports to be at least $230.

During the next four days, patrolmen, detectives and officers from the Lincoln Police Department spent a total of 51½ man-hours investigating the crime, questioning suspects and arresting Knaff The cost of that time, based on those men's hourly wage, totaled $322 34 This does not include the cost of transportation, the cost of filing and processing reports, or the time spent informing other officers of case developments.

Knaff was lodged in the city jail for one day at a cost of $7 24 until his bond was set by the county court

Bill Gilmore, deputy county attorney who prosecuted Knaff, said the case was relatively uncomplicated Knaff was charged, waived preliminary hearing in county court, was arraigned in district court and pleaded guilty

Gilmore estimated he spent about seven hours preparing and presenting the case Since the county was paying Gilmore $9 an hour at that time, Gilmore's services cost about $63

To a certain extent, it can be argued that the costs of police, prosecutors and courts are not direct costs resulting from the robbery All of those services existed before the incident

But the store owner says the hold-up cost him much more than the amount taken.

Victim cites publicity

He said publicity about the robbery caused him to be robbed two more times in the following six weeks He has been in business in Lincoln since 1936 but had never before been robbed

The media coverage, he said, let everyone know he could be robbed

The Star's account of the robbery ran three paragraphs long on an inside page The story also was carried by radio, Channel 10 and the Lincoln Journal but did not receive more coverage than other robberies

Hiring an extra employe to work nights cost him $100 a week Although he has doubled his nightly staff, he has not doubled his nightly sales, he said.

He also has installed a videotape camera, at a cost of about $400, which he said he thinks has thwarted at least one other robbery.

His insurance agent threatened to cancel his policy but instead increased the deductable on his holdup insurance from $100 to $250

Knaff's capture, prosecution and incarceration has thus far cost society $6 530 88 and will cost a total of $17,408 88 should he remain in the Nebraska Penal Complex for his entire sentence The robbery has cost the store owner $7,600 in extra personnel and equipment, plus time to interview and hire new workers

And then there are the intangible costs The owner says he now is more aware that each customer who walks in the door is a potential robber

The strain, he said, is even more obvious in his wife "She worries some each time I go to work," he said "But then, she's the type that would "

Carter warns all in Mideast

South Bend, Ind (AP) — President Carter delivered a stern warning Sunday that failure to take advantage of peace opportunities in the Middle East could be disastrous not only for the Arabs and Israelis, but for the rest of the world

In a major policy speech highlighted by a strong affirmation of America s commitment to human rights, the President said that despite the United States historic friendship with Israel, its policy would not be affected by changes in Middle East leadership

His warning follows the election victory last Tuesday in Israel of the Likud coalition whose leader Menahem Begin, has taken a harder line toward peace settlements with the Arabs than had the ruling Labor party that was defeated

The President made his remarks in a speech at Notre Dame University where he received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the annual commencement exercises

Also receiving degrees were three Roman Catholic prelates, Bishop Donal Lamont Paul Cardinal Arns and Stephen Cardinal Kim, who have crusaded for human rights in Rhodesia, Brazil and South Korea

Carter expressed confidence in the strength of the American democratic system and in its foreign policy, which he said is ' rooted in our moral values, ' backed "by our material wealth and by our military power and "designed to serve mankind

"Being confident of our own future we are now free of that inordinate fear of communism which once led us to embrace any dictator who joined us in our fear, Carter said ' For too many years we have been willing to adopt the flawed principles and tactics of our adversaries, sometimes abandoning our values for theirs

We fought fire with fire, never thinking that fire is better fought with water," he said ' This approach failed, with Vietnam the best example of its intellectual and moral poverty

On the Middle East, the President said, ' This may be the most propitious time for a genuine settlement since the beginning of the Arab Israeli conflict To let this opportunity pass could mean disaster, not only for the Middle East but perhaps for the international political and economic order as well

Carter said last week that he hopes the Likud victory will not prove to be "a step backward in the search for peace

The President did not refer directly Sunday to the surprising Israeli election results, but said ' the historic friendship between the United States and Israel is not dependent on domestic politics in either nation, it is derived from our common respect for human freedom and from our common search for permanent peace

' Our own policy will not be affected by changes in leadership in any of the countries in the Middle East, ' said Carter

He said he expects Israel and its neighbors to remain bound by the two United Nations resolutions calling for withdrawal of troops from territory occupied in war and recognition of rights of the Middle East nations to exist in peace

As evidence that the speech was a message to the Israelis, Carter referred to the U N resolutions by number, 242 and 338 without explaining them to the throng that filled the university s gymnasium

Against a background of Arab demands for return of all lands occupied by Israel during the October 1973 war, Begin has agreed to negotiation of withdrawal from the Sinai and Golan Heights But he has refused to consider any return of territory in the West Bank of the Jordan River

The Arabs hope that Carter may be able to use his influence to soften Begin s stand

The President depicted the commitment to human rights as the cornerstore of U S foreign policy

We can no longer separate the traditional issues of war and peace from the new global questions of justice, equity, and human rights, he said

On U S -Soviet relations, Carter said, I believe in detente with the Soviet Union To me it means progress toward peace But he said it must be ' comprehensive and reciprocal

We cannot have accommodation in one part of the world and the aggravation of conflicts in another, he declared

We hope the Soviet leaders will join us in efforts to stop the spread of nuclear explosives and to reduce sales of conventional arms," he said

Begin refuses old borders

New York (AP) — Menahem Begin whose Likud bloc won the recent elections in Israel, said Sunday it would "play into the hands of the Soviet Union ' for his nation to accept a return to its pre 1967 borders

In the six-day war that year Israel conquered the Sinai peninsula the West Bank of the Jordan, the Gaza strip and the Golan Heights

President Carter has suggested that Israel return to its earlier borders with some minor rectifications

"I believe Judea and Samaria (the West Bank lands) are an integral part of Israel ' he said liberated in the six-day war

Asked if his views did not put him into direct conflict with President Carter he said President Carter knows the Bible by heart so he knows to whom this land by right belongs it is just inconceivable that we should agree to such mortal danger

Each time questioners on ABC s ' Issues and Answers ' interview program, taped late last week in Tel Aviv asked about the occupied countries Begin would interrupt to change the word to liberated

Murder charges filed against two G.I. youths

By Dean Terrill
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — "The boys weren't model students, but I am really dismayed to think they're accused of something like this "

Northwest School Superintendent Bob Rosencrants thus put into words what many of the teachers and 600 students probably were thinking to themselves Sunday Numerous other Grand Islanders were similarly shocked that two 16-year-old youths have been formally charged in last week's shooting death of Ace Hardware manager Donald Beery, 28

Complaints of first degree murder were filed Sunday against Bernard R Schaeffer and George A Lanzendorf, Northwest classmates until the latter dropped out of school last fall He was a sophomore, Schaeffer, a junior

In an unusual Sunday appearance before Hall County District Court Judge Lloyd W Kelly Jr , both were ordered held without bond pending a preliminary hearing some time this week They had been arrested late Saturday afternoon

Lanzendorf requested a court appointed attorney during the brief proceeding and was assigned Bill Blackburn

Schaeffer appeared with his own counsel Tom Wagoner

The charges were filed by Hall County Attorney Sam Grimminger Officials said neither youth resisted arrest, but declined further details until a press conference scheduled Monday morning

Several student acquaintances of the accused pair said neither was very involved in school activities Schaeffer, however was on the golf team and also was an Eagle Scout

Schaeffer is the son of Mr and Mrs Robert Schaeffer and has one brother who incidentally was among Sunday afternoon s graduating seniors The school officials said his parents are both active in the Northeast Booster Club, a promotional organization

Lanzendorf reportedly has several brothers and sisters and lives with his mother, Mrs Joyce Lanzendorf. She and one of the brothers were present at the court appearance

According to principal Joe Toczek, Schaeffer especially had high scholastic potential ' if he just would apply himself "

I d say they were both underachievers, neither of them working to their capabilities he stated

Big savings emphasized in city push for carpooling

By Jim Camden
Star Staff Writer

There's a city agency that's out to save you $627 next year if you're an average working person

Of course, this agency isn't going to give you that kind of money for nothing In order to earn it you will have to give up a hallowed American tradition — the privilege of driving yourself to work

The agency is the Lincoln Carpool/Vanpool office, which last week began collecting names of local workers interested in sharing a ride to work Some 3 000 cards have been passed out to city employes to determine their interest in carpooling and to find out where people who want to share a ride live, when they work, and when they go home

Shirley Maly, program director, said the information will be programmed into a computer and potential carpoolers who live within about a half mile of each other will be matched up The agency will then try to get the groups to sit down and work out the details for their joint ventures.

Mrs Maly said there is more to matching persons for a carpool than finding compatible schedules The members will have to work out minor personality details for themselves

"Problems like will you allow smoking in the car, or playing the radio loud, are going to have to be settled," she said

And after the carpool gets started, problems such as the driver not being prompt, or one member being slow and making everyone in the car late for work may break up a group. Mrs Maly said In that case, the agency will try to match the people up with other groups

So why would the average worker, who has enough to worry about with getting himself to work in the morning, take on the extra hassle of two or three or four other people? One big reason is money

According to a chart published by the carpool office, the members of a four-person carpool can save $627 24 each by sharing the ride That is computed with a 10-mile round trip to work, and figuring 60 cents per gallon for gasoline in a car averaging 15 miles per gallon, plus 14 4 cents per mile for depreciation, repairs, oil and insurance on your car, and $1 50 per day for parking

Note that it does not include the money you may be dishing out for parking tickets if you park on the street

If you have free parking, a carpool with three other persons would save you $347 76, the agency s data says

The Carpool/Vanpool program is funded by a $77,000 federal grant and some $8,500 in city money After city employes' data cards are processed and carpools begin to form, the agency will distribute cards at other local businesses where employes have expressed interest in ride sharing Neighborhood associations and business groups also will be provided with cards and instructions to distribute among their memberships

Individual workers who are interested in carpooling but don't have access to a carpool through work will be able to come to the agency's office in the County-City building and fill out a card

The agency also promotes other types of transportation that would cut down on the number of cars on the road. A display recently on view at the County-City Building showed Lincoln s bike paths and featured Lincoln Transportation System bus schedules

' We're not a threat to the bus system Mrs Maly said The agency will suggest that people who can t get in a carpool try the bus

And if a carpooler's ride cancels out at the last minute he should know where to catch the nearest bus to get to work, she added

The next step beyond carpooling is vanpooling Mrs Maly explained In some cities companies have bought vans and allow an employe to drive one for free He in turn arranges to pick up eight to 12 other employes on the way to work

This can save the company the cost of expanded parking and the riders all share in the expenses of maintaining the van

Carpooling and vanpooling will be discussed at an open house to be held by the agency at 7 30 p m Thursday on the fifth floor of the Lincoln Foundation Building

Karen still survives without respirator

Morris Plains, N.J. (AP) — Karen Anne Quinlan, whose death-with-dignity case prompted a landmark court ruling, is still defying medical experts one year after her respirator was unplugged.

Doctors testified before the New Jersey Supreme Court last year that she would die within hours after being removed from the respirator. But her condition has been stable since she was weaned from the life-support equipment last May 23.

Miss Quinlan's father, Joseph, says he believes her condition is "very slowly deteriorating." But he says he cannot detect any changes in her appearance when he visits her bedside daily.

Quinlan and his wife, Julia, recently denied a statement by their family priest that Mrs. Quinlan said her daughter's condition had changed because she was holding her neck "a little stiffer."

Attending physician, Richard Watson, says anyone bedridden for two years will become stiff, according to a spokesman for Morris View Nursing Home, the county facility for welfare patients where the 23-year-old Miss Quinlan lives.

Quinlan says his daughter is in the same semi-fetal position she has been in since lapsing into a coma April 14, 1975, from a combination of drugs and alcohol. Other sources say her body is contorted, but her face is unchanged. Her dark hair has been clipped short.

"She does have periods when she is more active than others," said nursing home director Fred Swanson. Others say she makes involuntary reflex reactions to touch and sound.

The Quinlans asked doctors to disconnect their daughter's respirator in July 1975 after their priest assured them that Roman Catholic doctrine did not require keeping their daughter alive mechanically.

"I was the last to hold out," Quinlan said at the time. "But after a lot of prayers I became convinced this is what God's will was, and that Karen was being called by him."

As the world watched and the Quinlans waited, the state Supreme Court last March

Associated Press

Karen Anne Quinlan

... case was landmark ruling

ruled that Miss Quinlan and others in a similar condition had a constitutional right to die based on their right to privacy.

The court said the decision would be accepted by a society whose members would "under similar circumstances exercise such a choice in the same way for themselves or for those closest to them."

The National Broadcasting Co. is planning a television movie about the Quinlans' ordeal, with Brian Keith and Jane Wyatt to play the parents. The Quinlans are cooperating with an author writing a book about their experience. Film and the book are due for release this fall, and the Quinlans plan to donate their share of the profits to the Paterson Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church.

Fire claims 12 lives

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — A fire in the downtown Duc de Brabant Hotel, possibly started by a careless smoker, killed 12 lives early Sunday and injured about 30, police reported.

They said the bodies of six victims could be seen in the ruins of the building, but they would not be recovered immediately because of the danger of collapsing walls.

The bodies that were removed were badly burned, firemen said. Only three were tentatively identified, and they were believed to be Britons.

Pensions surpass other costs

Washington (UPI) — The government this year will spend more on pensions for healthy retired military men and women under age 65 than on new Air Force planes or navy ships, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday.

"This year the federal government will pay about $6.7 billion to more than 800,000 'retirees' who are under 65 and who retired with no disability whatsoever," said Aspin, a former Defense Department analyst.

"That's more than we'll spend on all the planes the Air Force will buy this year. It's more than we'll spend on ships for the Navy," he said.

Aspin said almost 92% of military retirees collecting pensions are healthy and still of working age, and 45% are below age 50

Human rights still pressing

Washington (AP) — The Carter administration has not backed down on its human rights stance, Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security adviser, said Sunday.

He also said that every action the Carter administration "systematically" has taken in foreign affairs "was part of a plan for the first 90 days of the administration, which were meant to culminate the London Summit."

Seagoing haul captured

Edisto Island, S.C. (UPI) — Federal and state law enforcement authorities raided a cabin cruiser, a 43-foot sloop and a motel room Saturday night, arresting eight persons and seizing almost three tons of Marijuana.

Authorities Sunday estimated the street value of the marijuana at $2 million

They said state agents, acting on a tip from a private citizen, had staked out the 30-foot cabin cruiser for weeks. It had been anchored in an isolated inlet on the remote Edisto Island

"They're an alternative to swimming pools and a way of socializing," said Chapin of his redwood vats, which sell for $1,000 to $2,600, depending on heat and filtration systems.

Dissidents win rifle association election

Cincinnati (AP) — Dissident members of the National Rifle Association staged a coup Sunday at the organization's national convention, deposing the executive vice president and pledging stricter support for the right to keep and bear arms.

In a stormy session that began Saturday night and lasted until 4 a.m., former NRA president Harlon Carter was voted in as chief executive officer, replacing Maj. Gen. Maxwell E. Rich, executive vice president for the past seven years.

A coalition of NRA members, the Federation for NRA, contended that the 100-year-old organization was moving away from what they perceived to be its primary purpose — defending citizens' rights to keep and bear arms — and getting into activities inconsistent with the charter.

"There will be no more civil war in the National Rifle Association," Carter promised more than 1,000 NRA life members attending the convention here. "You want to keep a strong Institute for Legislative Action (ILA), and you shall have it. You are the National Rifle Association."

The NRA has about 200,000n life members.

Carter, in addition to being a past NRA president, was the first head of the ILA, the NRA's lobbying arm.

In agreeing to take over as executive vice president, Carter pledged to keep the ILA working to fight gun control legislation. The dissidents had contended the ILA was not being allowed to fight effectively against such legislation.

Neal Knox, publisher of "handloader" and "Rifle" magazines, was one of the prime movers in the takeover.

Knox said the organization was trying to dump antigun control activities in exchange for financial support from several foundations, including the Ford Foundation. He said the money was being sought for development of the National Outdoor Center at Raton, N.M., and planned new headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

It was decided to put off any new development at Raton for at least a year. At that time, officials said, the question of what to do with the property will be looked at again.

General's dismissal defended

Washington (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Sunday Maj. Gen. John Singlaub can still serve a "useful" military role, although he was dismissed as chief of staff in South Korea after a personal meeting with President Carter.

But Brown defended President Carter's decision to reassign the general, who was ousted for telling a reporter he thought the administration's plans to withdraw American ground troops from South Korea would lead to war.

"There has been plenty of opportunity for expression of military views on the matter," Brown said.

But once a policy is determined, a soldier's responsibility is "to support that policy if he plans to stay in the military," Brown said. "That's a responsibility and a restriction that people assume when they put on a uniform."

Brown said Carter's plans to withdraw the 40,000 American ground troops from Korea over the next four to five years will still leave U.S. air and sea power in the area.

Under Secretary of State Philip Habib and Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff depart Monday for South Korea to begin talks that will help decide the pullout schedule.

On another subject, Brown said, in light of last week's strategic arms talks with the Soviet Union, he does not plan to make a recommendation on B1 bomber production until early next month.

Brown also expressed concern about the Soviet buildup on borders of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

House panel to hear general

Washington (UPI) — Gen. John K. Singlaub, relieved of his command in South Korea because he criticized President Carter's policies, will stay in Washington this week to testify before a House subcommittee.

An army spokesman said Singlaub indicated he will accept the reassignment Carter offered and "looks forward to whatever his new job may be."

The highly decorated two-star general, third-ranking army officer in Korea, refused to comment Saturday after Carter removed him from his post in a dramatic meeting at the White House.

A Defense Department spokesman said Singlaub will testify as scheduled Wednesday before the Investigations Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee.

Hail damaged jet lands

Houghton, Mich. (UPI) — A North Central Airlines DC-9 jet carrying 41 passengers had its windshields smashed and radar damaged in a violent hailstorm Friday, but it flew 200 miles to a safe landing in Green Bay, Wis., the airline reported Sunday.

Airline officials said none of the passengers and crew on the North Central flight was injured.

Lions apparently eat two little cowherds

Nairobi, Kenya (AP) — Two young girls grazing cattle in northeastern Kenya apparently were killed and eaten by lions, police reported.

They said a search was organized when the girls failed to return to their village in the Isiolo district but only their torn and blood-stained clothing was found.

Learn Nature's Good Luck Secret

How to cash in on your built-in luck by using your personal Biorhythm Analysis to discover your multi-high jackpot days

By Paul Vanderwist

You are going to experience at least 5 multi-high jackpot days in the next two months. Your total will have reached 31 jackpot days by the end of the year.

But chances are, you won't collect a single one of the jackpots you have coming to you. Why? Because although Mother Nature built these jackpots into you, up until now, she has kept the way to collect them a closely guarded secret.

But a scientific discovery has finally cracked "Nature's Good Luck Secret." What is the discovery? Scientists call it Biorhythm.

Biorhythm is currently drawing enormous public attention. As a copywriter, I decided to look into it. My investigation centered around the research being conducted by the Biorhythm Research Institute.

The Institute has developed a two part theory. First, at birth Mother Nature built good luck into each one of us. She intended for us to enjoy success and happiness in our lovelives, finances, and careers. Second, in order to cash in on your built-in luck, you must simply make the right little decisions on your Biorhythm multi-high jackpot days. But, before I tell you about their research, let me quickly explain what Biorhythm multi-high jackpot days are.

Jackie met John Kennedy on a mental and emotional Multi High Jackpot Day.

Alfred Mayle won $10,000 by buying a lottery ticket on a Multi-High Jackpot Day.

WHAT IS BIORHYTHM?

The word Biorhythm is derived from the Greek words 'bio' meaning life and 'rhythmos' meaning regulated beats. There is considerable evidence that we all have three Life Beats (Biorhythm Cycles). 1. A 23 day Physical Cycle, governing energy and sexual stimulation. 2. A 28 day Emotional Cycle, governing love and happiness. 3. A 33 day Mental Cycle, governing money and career. These three Biorhythm Cycles flow throughout our entire life. They alternate between high and recharge cycles. (See photo at upper right.) When at least two Biorhythm cycles are on high, you experience a multi-high jackpot day. When three cycles hit high on exactly the same day, you experience a Triple High Super Jackpot Day. When all three cycles are on recharge, you have a relax day.

CELEBRITY RESEARCH

With this explanation in mind, let me continue to describe the Institute's research.

To prove part two of their theory, that extraordinary luck can be achieved by making the right little decisions on Biorhythm multi-high days, they studied a group of celebrities. All of the celebrities had one thing in common. They were leading ordinary lives when suddenly they were skyrocketed to wealth, success and fame. Here are their findings on just three of the many celebrities they studied.

When the Olympics opened last summer, 14 year old Nadia Comaneci experienced a Triple High Jackpot Day. Nadia went on to capture the first perfect score in Olympic Gymnastic history, seven perfect scores overall, and a total of 3 gold medals. In addition, Nadia's physical Biorhythm Cycle was very high every day of her performance, and peaked the day she won the gold medal on the uneven parallel bars.

Remember the pet rock craze? The man who conceived the idea was a Californian named Gary Dahl. On April 19, 1975, his Biorhythm Chart indicated a mental high jackpot day. It was on this day that Dahl had his pet rock brainstorm. Ultimately, this venture made him a million dollars in less than 90 days.

Jackie Bouvier was an unknown reporter from the Washington Times Herald. On May 8, 1952 her mental and emotional cycles both reached high points. It was on this day that she met and began interviewing John F. Kennedy. They were soon married and later she became the youngest First Lady in the 20th Century. Today, Jackie is probably the most famous woman alive.

The Institute also studied people who weren't famous but had experienced extremely good luck.

During the week of August 13th, Pat Carnes, a Canton, Ohio housewife had an incredible lucky streak. Ironically her luck began on Friday the 13th when she won her company's check pool for $69. Friday night, Pat won $145 playing Bingo. Saturday, she hit the superfecta at the racetrack for $850. Sunday, she won 5 times at Bingo and was embarrassed to keep raising her hand. Wednesday, she hit both the trifecta and the perfecta for a total of $930. Unknown to Pat, during this week her Biorhythm chart had registered six Multi-High Jackpot days in a row.

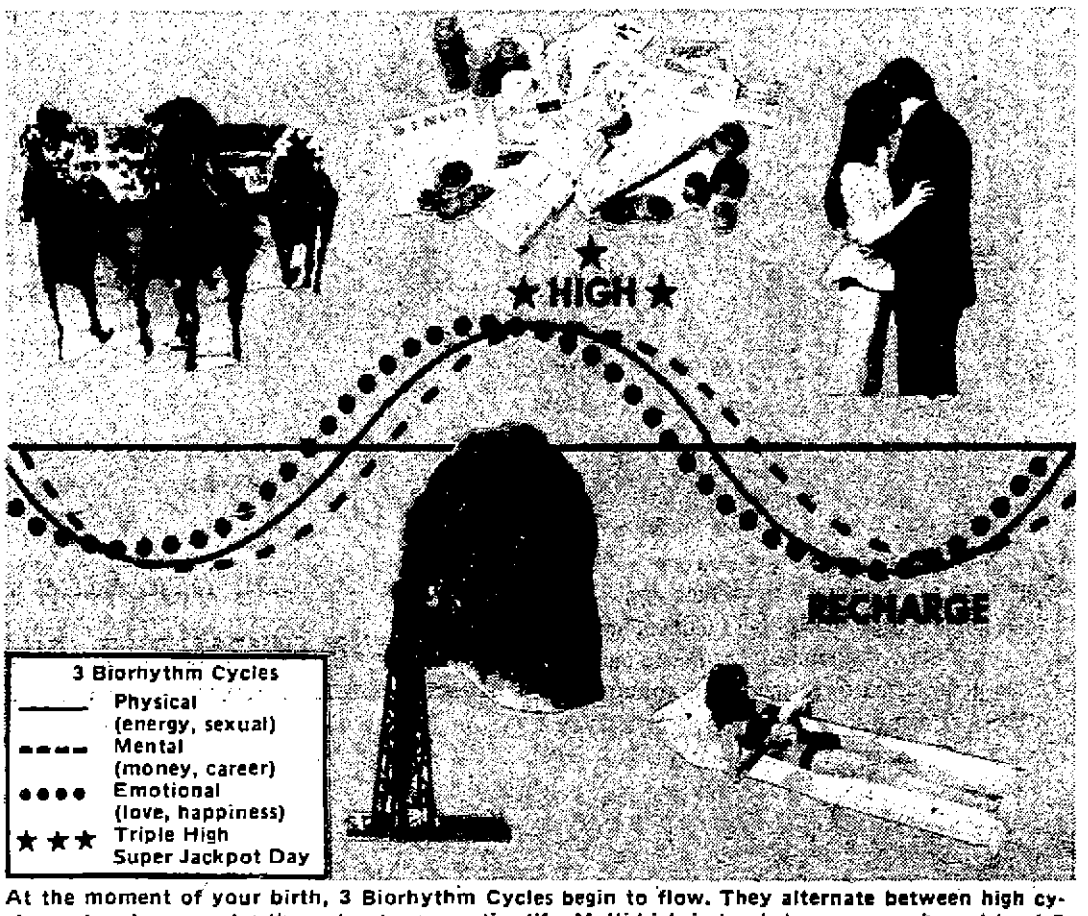

Omar Watts was a 59 year old nightwatchman struggling to support a wife and five children. On October 27, 1974 his Biorhythm Analysis indicated a Triple High Jackpot day. It was on this day that Omar chose to quit his job as a nightwatchman. His purchase of a 50¢ ticket had just won Ohio's first million dollar lottery.

As you can see from the above examples, it was the little decisions made on multi-high days, which led to luck, love, wealth, success and happiness. This proves part two of the Institute's theory.

Now the Institute is conducting a nationwide research project to prove part one of their theory; that everyone, regardless of age or ability, can dramatically improve their luck with the help of their personal Biorhythm Analysis. If you send them your birth date, they will individually prepare your one year – 365 day Biorhythm Analysis. Along with your Analysis, you will receive a research blank which will offer you cash incentives to simply tell the Institute all about the unbelievable luck, love, wealth, success and happiness your Biorhythm Analysis has brought you. Your success story will prove part one of their theory.

HOW IS AN ANALYSIS PREPARED?

A Biorhythm Technician will process your birth information. Your keypunched card will be fed into a giant IBM 370–145 computer. The computer will then complete the complicated calculations to determine the positions of your Biorhythm Cycles every day for the coming year. Your Biorhythm Analysis will not be preprinted. The computer individually prepares each analysis just like a man would. But the computer's tremendous speed enables the Institute to prepare reports for the public at low costs.

At the moment of your birth, 3 Biorhythm Cycles begin to flow. They alternate between high cycles and recharge cycles throughout your entire life. Multi-high jackpot days occur when at least 2 cycles are on high at the same time. Relax days occur when all three cycles are on recharge.

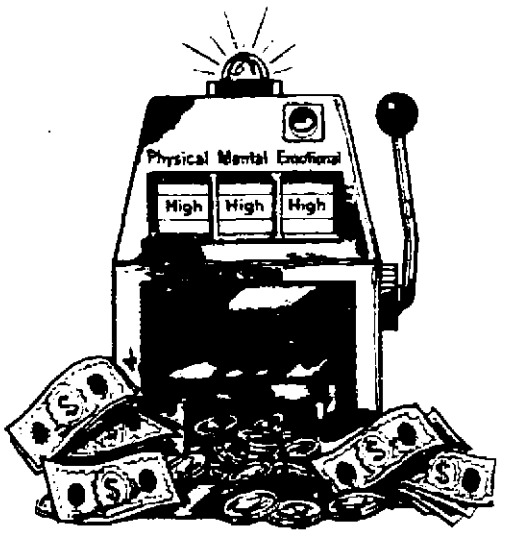

WHAT CAN BIORHYTHM DO FOR YOU?

With your personal 15 page, 3,000 word Biorhythm Analysis, all of the following benefits can be yours.

- Your luck can instantly improve. Your Analysis will point out your multi-high jackpot days. These lucky days are the best times for you to enter lotteries, drawings, raffles, play bingo, go to the races, play cards, or try any game of chance.
- Your Biorhythm Analysis can make you lucky at love. You'll be told when your Physical (sexual) and Emotional (romantic) high days will occur, so you can take full advantage of them. When you know ahead of time you'll be at your best; your self-confidence will improve. Members of the opposite sex will sense this and be attracted to you.
- You will reach a new level of self-understanding with Biorhythm. You will follow a more natural lifestyle and be completely comfortable in your new skin.
- Your analysis will help you perform better on the job and accellerate advancements. Profitable times (intellectual highs) to make career and investment decisions will be pinpointed.
- Your analysis will notify you when to be on the lookout for hidden talents which may be surfacing. It will then point out the best times to develop these talents.
- By knowing the best times to do things, and when to relax and recharge, you'll do everything better than you have before. You can use your Biorhythm Analysis to begin an all around program of self-improvement.

Biorhythm has been thoroughly tested. Over 5,000 companies worldwide use Biorhythm. Many American airlines use Biorhythm. Biorhythm has been covered by most major newspapers, magazines, and has recently been featured on "To Tell The Truth" and "Monday Night Football."

"Once you have your personal Biorhythm Analysis prepared from your birth date you can begin to enjoy luck, love, wealth, success, and happiness."

When your three Biorhythm Cycles hit high on exactly the same day, you experience a Triple High Super Jakkpot Day.

HOW CAN YOU ORDER YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHM ANALYSIS?

If you are interested in immediately cashing in on all of the built-in luck, love, wealth, success and happiness you have coming to you, then simply do this:

Send the name, address, month, date, year and place of birth for each person on a piece of paper along with the $3.65 plus 30¢ postage and handling (cash, check or money order) for each one year Biorhythm Analysis. (365 days for 1¢ a day) If you have Mastercharge, BankAmericard or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of credit card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your orders to Biorhythm Research Institute, Dept. G–836, 401 Market Ave. N., Canton, Ohio 44750.

You take absolutely no risk when you order. Your Biorhythm Analysis is covered by a one year – 365 day – full money back guarantee. If your luck does not dramatically improve in all areas of your life, simply return your analysis. You will receive every penny of your money back – no questions asked.

The Institute's research project may not last much longer. But right this minute, you can have your personal one year Biorhythm Analysis individually prepared for just 1¢ a day! If you have any questions, call me, Paul Vanderwist, at (216) 455–1390. I'll be happy to talk with you.

Seven die in weekend accidents

United Press International

Seven Nebraskans died in traffic accidents over the weekend, including two Omahans killed in an accident in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and three teenagers who died in a grinding head-on crash south of Hay Springs.

Jeffrey Nisker, 19, and Dennis Anderson, 19, both of Omaha, died when their car collided with a car driven by Marvin Stockton, 28, Council Bluffs, early Sunday morning in Council Bluffs.

Stockton escaped with only minor injuries

The three teenagers killed Saturday in an accident 12.6 miles south of Hay Springs on Nebraska 87 were Lonnie E. Turpin, 16, Gering; Kevin Rhyne, 15, Terrytown, and Donald E. Bowles, 18, Hay Springs.

The Nebraska State Patrol said Turpin was driving a car southbound when he apparently went off the west edge of the highway, swerved back across the centerline and struck a car driven by Monte Orr, 30, of Hay Springs.

Rhyne was a passenger in Turpins' car and Bowles was a passenger in Orr's car.

Siegesmund Malesa, 53, Omaha died Saturday night about four hours after a nearly head-on crash three miles west of Omaha

The Douglas County Sheriff's Office said Malesa's eastbound car collided with a westbound car driven by Donna Adams, 18, Valley, who told authorities she lost control on mud- and water-covered Nebraska 64.

Malesa's wife, Wanda, 51, was hospitalized in serious condition in Omaha.

The Adams woman and a passenger, Shelly Taylor, 19, Bennington, were treated at an Omaha hospital and released.

Linda Cheloha, 14, Columbus, was killed in a crash on Nebraska 22 one and one-half miles east of Monroe Saturday night.

The victim was a passenger in a car driven by Timothy Aase, 17, Monroe, whose car was struck nearly head-on by a car driven by Anita Kaspar, 23, Columbus

Aase was in satisfactory condition and Mrs Kaspar was in stable condition Sunday at a Columbus hospital.

Omahan is wounded after chase

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha man wounded by the town marshal at Arlington was reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital in Omaha Sunday

Washington County authorities identified the wounded man as Michael R. Muldoon, 21. He gave officers an address that is not listed in the city directory

Officers said the shooting occurred early Saturday evening after Marshal Kenneth Booze chased a car reported stolen in Fremont

The report said the car failed to make a corner and went into a ditch just east of Arlington.

When the driver did not get out, authorities said, Booze fired a shotgun warning into the rear of the vehicle.

Washington County Atty. David Quist said Booze told him he could see the driver fumbling around the glove compartment or under the front seat.

Quist said the man got out of the car and started running across the field, and Booze shouted a warning to stop When the man kept running, Quist said, Booze fired his shotgun and the man fell.

Professor looks, finds state lottery bad bet

Washington (AP) — State lotteries are a bad bet, says a professor who directed a federally funded study of gambling. The local bookie or numbers runner can offer you better odds for winning, the study showed.

In a report issued Sunday, G Robert Blakey of Cornell University said state gambling operations pay out only a small share of the total betting revenue in prizes to winners because states use the games to make money for government services.

Illegal gambling operations pay a much higher proportion of the take to winners, Blakey reported.

"Apart from the question of legality or morality, no one but a fool would gamble with state-run operations," he wrote. "If the state is willing to forego its revenue-raising objective, then perhaps state lotteries or bookmaking could compete on an equal basis with the illegal numbers games and bookmaking. But the numbers operators and bookies, who don't worry about taxes, can always give customers better odds."

The report was issued by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which financed the two-year study with $75,805. The 934-page report traces the history of gambling and the laws regulating it from the 11th century to the present.

For the past 14 years, the United States has been experimenting with legal state-operated lotteries as a means of raising state revenues while avoiding tax increases. The 13 states now operating lotteries are New Hampshire, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, the report said.

For several decades, many states have permitted parimutuel betting at racetracks, which the states tax and regulate. New York City and several other areas in New York state also operate off-track betting corporations.

All forms of gambling have been legal in Nevada since 1931, and the state regulates gambling operations but runs none of its own. And New Jersey plans to allow casinos to open soon in Atlantic City.

Discussing state lotteries, Blakey said, "Although bettors 'win' lottery prizes on occasion, the only entity which consistently 'wins' is the state. It wagers nothing but sets the rules of the game. Compared to other forms of gambling, the state lottery pays out in winnings only a small portion of the total revenues."

He said sports bookmakers "generally pay out 95.5 cents on the dollar; slot machines, 75 cents to 95 cents; and numbers games, 60 cents to 70 cents." Those forms of gambling are illegal in most places.

"The state lotteries — by statute — pay only about 40 cents to 45 cents into the prize fund for every dollar wagered," the report said.

Blakey concluded that lotteries are an undesirable form of taxes and an inefficient way for states to raise money.

"In general," the report said, "persons in lower income groups have the most incentive to purchase lottery tickets. Leading routine lives for lack of money, they derive comparatively more benefit from the lottery's excitement and potential profits than do the affluent.... Although contrary evidence exists, it appears that many of those who play the lottery are those who can least afford it."

In addition, the lottery may be "an uneconomical way to raise revenue because its profits are so unpredictable," the report said.

Connecticut, for example, ran up a $6.5 million deficit in 1972 because lottery profits were not as high as officials had anticipated, the report said.

Noting the trend toward legalized gambling, Blakey said:

"The nation seems to be heading for the worst of both worlds. Illegal gambling will flourish in a twilight zone between formal prohibition and half-hearted enforcement. By its side, there will develop legal games — first, lotteries, then off-track betting, finally perhaps state-run, or at least state-regulated, casinos.

"Gambling policy will have changed in a hope to increase tax revenues and reform law enforcement, comparatively little income will endure, and the corruption and inefficiency of law enforcement and the obstruction of the courts will continue."

Knowles' right arm has strength.

Arm that made history still on

Reading, Mass. (AP) — Everett Knowles uses his right arm to swing a tennis racket and heave 40-pound cartons, but he rarely thinks about the afternoon 15 years ago when that arm made medical history.

He was a freckled 12-year-old when his arm was torn off in a train accident. Within hours, doctors had rejoined the severed appendage. It was the first time surgeons had accomplished this feat

"It's been 15 years, and I still have it," said Knowles, now 27. "Every anniversary that goes by, I look back and say, 'I still have it.' It looks like I'll be able to keep it."

Knowles works 65-70 hours a week driving a delivery truck for a meat packing company. He swings sides of beef and totes heavy cartons under each arm.

"It's great," said Knowles. "The arm has as much mobility as I need. It does everything I want."

On May 23, 1962, Knowles was riding on a train in Somerville when his protruding arm hit an abutment and was cut off just below the shoulder.

Within 1½ hours, he was in surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital. Doctors rejoined the blood vessels, then the bones and nerves.

Since then, doctors around the world have replanted at least 600 arms and hands. Dr. Ronald A. Malt, who performed the operation, said that with a few minor changes, the same techniques he used are still in effect today.

Knowles says he has about 60 per cent mobility in his rejoined arm. His major difficulty is not being able to move his fingers voluntarily. Despite this, he plays basketball, runs track and recently took up tennis.

For the first five years after the operation, he feared infection or other complications might force him to lose the arm. Now he believes he always will have it.

"It's slowed me down sometimes, but it hasn't stopped me," Knowles said. "I would say I have a normal life."

Young in South Africa hugs black nationalist

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — Andrew Young ended a two-day visit to South Africa Sunday by embracing a black nationalist leader and declaring that blacks here should use economic boycotts as a weapon to force change in the white government's racial policies.

The black U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, whose outspokenness in the past has aroused the ire of many white South Africans, expressed some wide-ranging views Sunday, telling largely white audiences that Russians are racists, Jimmy Carter was an Afrikaaner, and that it was the police, not black students, who rioted in the black township of Soweto last year.

Young also made one of his sharpest attacks yet on white-minority governments in southern Africa. He accused Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime of "systematic oppression and death-dealing" and said later that with "minor qualifications" the same applied to the South African government.

Young preached his message that change in this racially divided country be effected through economic and diplomatic pressure, instead of violence, to varied audiences of businessmen, students and newspaper editors.

He left Sunday night for Zambia and will then go on to Sudan on the final leg of a two-week African tour.

At a reception Sunday afternoon at the U.S. Information Service center here, Young threw his arms around black nationalist leader Chief Gatsha Buthelezi and joined in the singing of the nationalist anthem "Nkosi Sikeleli Afrika" ("God Bless Africa").

Buthelezi is political leader of South Africa's largest black tribe, the Zulus, and head of a growing black political-cultural movement called Inkatha.

The reception was attended by white liberals, representatives of mixed-race and Asian South Africans, and a sprinkling of black nationalists.

Young told the audience at the reception that on principle he would oppose the stepped-up black guerrilla war in Rhodesia.

He added: "But when you talk about a lifespan for blacks in Rhodesia that kills them in half the time of the lifespan of whites, when you talk about the infant mortality rate, when you talk about the presence of disease, when you talk about malnutrition that is the result of systematic oppression and death-dealing, then you have to relate the violence of a military situation ... to the total violence of the situation."

At a news conference afterward, he said that with "minor qualifications" the same could be said of South Africa.

Asked whether he would like to see South African blacks pressure the white government by boycotting white businesses, as American blacks did in the civil rights movement, Young replied: "I sure would."

Earlier Sunday, Young gave two speeches, one to students and professors and the other to newspaper editors and publishers. After each he mingled informally with his audiences, offering observations on a variety of issues.

He said the fact that racial issues are freely discussed in South Africa and the United States "means that we are more likely to come up with relevant solutions than, say, the Russians, who are racists and don't admit it."

With a broad grin, Young compared President Carter to the Dutch-descended Afrikaaners, the backbone of South Africa's white minority and the country's staunchest defenders of racial segregation.

"I think Jimmy Carter is an Afrikaaner," Young said to laughter from his audience. "He comes out of that same rural, hardnosed stock ...

"I just figure you've met your match," he continued. "I mean, you can out-tough some of these British liberals, but I don't think you can out-tough the folks that are running the U.S. now."

Young said that until recently, the racial climate in the United States was in some ways more brutal than in South Africa, but "you are catching up with us real fast, with the recent police riots in Soweto."

"It was not the children that rioted" at Soweto, Young said. "It was the police that rioted." He was referring to bloody antigovernment disturbances that began last June in the black township of Soweto, near Johannesburg.

South Africa's white government, whose legitimacy Young has questioned, almost refused to allow his two-day visit after it learned that Young hoped to meet with black dissidents here.

Foreign Minister R.F. Botha finally approved the visit May 13 after reportedly receiving assurances Young would limit his contacts to students, businessmen and journalists.

Although he did not meet with black militants, Young reportedly sent a private note to Winnie Mandela, wife of jailed black nationalist Nelson Mandela. Mrs. Mandela recently was banished from the Johannesburg area to a rural village hundreds of miles away, presumably because of her actives in behalf of black nationalism.

Cadet killed; plane hits house

New York (AP) — A teen-age Civil Air Patrol cadet was killed and three other persons were injured Sunday when their light plane crashed into a two-family home in Flushing.

The house and plane burst into flames after the craft struck the upper floor, but all residents escaped without injury, fire officials said.

Edwin Gueuara, 16, was killed while cadets Miquel Rosado, 14, and Martin Jorge, 16, were listed in guarded condition at Booth Memorial Hospital. The pilot, CAP 1st Lt. Annette Leder, was reported in critical condition at Flushing Hospital.

Firemen extinguished the blazes within about 40 minutes and officials said the house did not appear to be extensively damaged.

The Cessna 172 crashed about a mile southeast of Flushing Airport, from which it had taken off three minutes earlier.

Maj. Leroy J. Molini of the CAP said the cadets, ages 14 to 17, were on a training and orientation exercise.

Molini said there was no communication between the plane and the tower to indicate trouble after what appeared to be a normal takeoff.

Mondale says he can report progress on Rhodesia peace

London (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale, winding up a 10-day European diplomatic mission, arrived in London Sunday and said he could report to British leaders that progress had been made toward racial peace in Rhodesia.

Mondale flew here from Belgrade, where he held two days of talks with President Josip Broz Tito and other Yugoslav leaders on U.S.-Yugoslavian relations. He was to meet with Prime Minister James Callaghan and Foreign Secretary David Owen during his two-day stopover here.

On the flight from Belgrade aboard Air Force Two, Mondale told reporters that South African Prime Minister John Vorster had agreed to back a proposal calling for elections in white-ruled Rhodesia next year.

Mondale met with Vorster last week in Vienna, Austria, as part of a U.S. diplomatic effort to encourage change in the policies of racial segregation and white minority rule in southern Africa.

The vice president told reporters Vorster's commitment represented progress because the South African leader previously has agreed only to support proposals acceptable to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Vorster, whose country is Rhodesia's chief trading partner, is regarded as a key figure in the current U.S.-British campaign to end the guerrilla war and introduce black majority rule in Rhodesia.

Owen has been trying to gather support in Africa for a Rhodesian constitutional conference.

During a similar Rhodesian peace mission last year, then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reportedly favored establishment of a massive fund to compensate whites who might flee Rhodesia and suffer economic losses in the event of a black takeover.

Mondale said he planned to tell Callaghan and Owen that "we do not want to have a fund which buys out" people who want to leave the country.

"We thought that created an incentive to run," Mondale said. "What we want is a stable Rhodesia in which everybody stays, and we want to use the fund to develop it. We have advised the British in the past that there is a great resistance to the buy-out principle in the Congress."

Outpouring of guns isn't

Atlanta (AP) — Only four handguns had been turned in by Sunday afternoon, but "Survival Days" sponsors quickly explained their exercise in voluntary disarmament was "principally educational."

The National Coalition to Ban Handguns had designated 15 churches and one synagogue in Atlanta and Dekalb County as collection points Sunday for persons wanting to get rid of handguns.

"We were hoping for a good number of guns," said the Rev. Ed Grider, local Survival Day Committee chairman. "I guess what the low number indicates is that there is a need for long-term education.

"Our main effort has been trying to get the person who has a gun in his home to realize the dangers and responsibilities of gun ownership," he added.

"The right to own a gun is one of the deepest felt things in American culture, and my hunch is that it's a more pervasive attitude in the Southeast," the Rev. Mr. Grider said.

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION MAINTENANCE

It is a recognized fact that in many instances, clutch failure in automatic transmission is due to products of fluid oxidation being deposited in the clutch plates causing slippage.

Chevrolet Motor Division recommends that every 24,000 miles or 2 years service, under normal conditions the automatic transmission should have the following services:

- Remove, clean & replace automatic pan.
- Remove, clean & replace suction screen.
- Check vacuum modulator valve, replace if needed.
- Adjust low band, add new fluid as needed (Parts extra as needed)

Spotlight On Agriculture

By Dominick Costello

The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) apparently is slated to undergo some changes under the new administration.

Sources in Washington indicate that Asst. Sec. of Agriculture Carol Foreman intends to split the agency into two groups — one to handle meat inspection and food-related services and another to pick up the remainder of APHIS's wide variety of services outside of direct food production.

It is unfair to begin second guessing Ms. Foreman before her intentions become clear, but she has indicated she intends to run a very tight ship in terms of protecting consumers.

Most of the services she has indicated she supports will almost certainly add to the cost of processing cattle for food. The spread between what the farmer is paid and the consumer is charged will grow even wider than it is today.

☆ ☆ ☆

A suggestion by a regional official of the new Federal Grain Inspection Service (FGIS) has riled the entire grain trade.

The suggestion was that the United States should organize its grain trade along the lines of a Canadian plan which a FGIS information officer said "works so well."

The Great Plains Wheat newsletter, however, says the Canadian system is a poor one noting that a U.S. agriculture attache reported that "fully 15% of the grain cars arriving at Canadian ports contain the wrong grade of grain and in some cases the wrong grain."

☆ ☆ ☆

Grain farmers are headed for real economic problems if current world grain production forecasts are correct. Wheat harvesting already is under way in south Texas.

World grain use is not expected to match the projected world grain production, thereby indicating a bigger carryover. Some authorities say production could reach 207.9 million metric tons. This would be a new world record carryover of grain due primarily to good weather almost everywhere.

Storage is getting to be a problem in the United States, India, Turkey and elsewhere. The USSR has announced a crash program to expand their storage capacity.

The USSR is also planning to increase livestock production, but they have had a gap between their plans and what they manage to carry out.

Farmers still are struggling with the problem of how to handle manure now that they have rediscovered its value as a fertilizer.

A Minnesota dairyman has developed a method called a picket dam storage facility. It is a huge bin that has a picket fence of super strength around it made of two by six planks spaced three-fourths of an inch apart.

The liquids drain into a storage basin from which they can be pumped to crop land via an irrigation system.

The solids are easier to handle with the liquid removed. The difficulties of handling the huge bulk of material needed in manure handeling is still a serious problem for farmers.

There is a new term floating about in the bull sale auction barns these days. It is "convenience cattle," which are the kind of cattle that can take care of themselves.

Sounds a little like the buffalo doesn't it.

Another term of some interest is "least motion agriculture." We used to call that labor saving techniques. One-man-farming things you can do from a tractor fit this term.

The monster bale of hay is an example of least motion agriculture. So is the barn cleaner, manure loader and even the walking plow if you compare it to a forked stick.

The United States has the world's most efficient agriculture when you look at the amount of food a single farmer produces. The catch-22 of that is that we also are the world's most energy intensive agricultural nation. We use more fuel for food production than anyone else.

Energy research is essential to the survival of our good life. Unless we can find a way to replace the gasoline horse, we will have to go back to the kind that burns oats.

What we really need is a tractor that runs on a battery we can insert in the dash board like a tape deck cartridge.

We could recharge it from a wind charger. First, we have to design it or some other method of storing energy that is easy to move around. If we can find some way to store energy in an improved lightweight rechargeable battery, we will be in fat city.

Thone says only government control can fix postal mess

United Press International

Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., has told his constituents the only solution to problems in mail delivery is to abolish the independent U.S. Postal Service and return control to the president and Congress.

"The Postal Service has a goal of eventually closing nearly all post offices in towns below 800 population, which would mean shutting up nearly 80% of those in Nebraska!" Thone said in his weekly letter to constituents in Nebraska's 1st District.

Thone said he has been fighting to put the U.S. Postal Service back under direct federal control since he came to Congress in 1971.

He said it was "ridiculous" for the government to spend millions of dollars to stabilize and revitalize small towns, while the U.S. Postal Service "wants to weaken or destroy many of them by taking away their post offices."

A proposal to end Saturday delivery of mail would "have dire results," Thone said.

"One of the reasons the post office system was established in the United States was to further communication and education by means of newspapers. The proposed halting of Saturday delivery will have a disastrous effect on Nebraska newspapers, with their customers sometimes receiving three daily papers in one day," he said.

Carter's policy may become Reasonable Deal, official says

The New Deal, the Great Society, the New Frontier: they bring to mind such great presidents as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Lyndon B. Johnson and John F. Kennedy.

The course taken by the Carter administration may come to be known as the Reasonable Deal, according to the president of the American Public Welfare Association.

"There may well be some mid-course corrections in federal domestic policy," Steven Minter said of resident Carter's welfare policy.

Minter, addressing the association's regional training conference Sunday night, said the Reasonable Deal's mid-course corrections — which could be perceived as broken promises — are the result of a realization that "there are no easy answers."

Such a policy is having mixed impact on welfare reform attempts, he said.

For example, he said, Carter's restoration of several welfare budget cuts by former President Gerald Ford will have a positive impact on the welfare system. But at the same time, Carter's goal of a balanced budget federal by 1981 could crimp welfare programs.

This "mixed picture," Minter said, "very well may be the picture of the future."

Welfare reform is a complex issue, he said, and cannot be solved with a simple answer like scrapping the existing system and building a new one from the ground up.

"It's becoming increasingly clear that it is going to be damned difficult to throw aside all that has been built up," said Minter, program officer of the Cleveland (Ohio) Foundation.

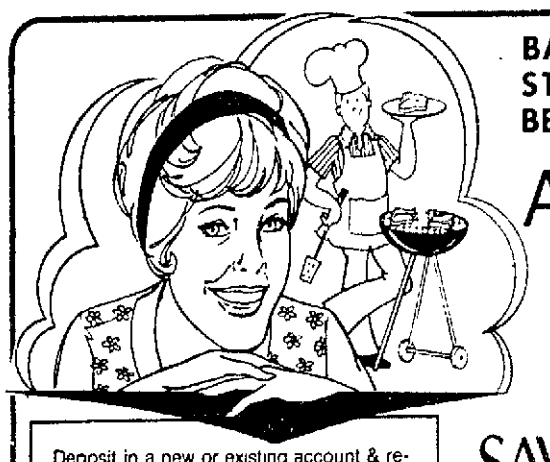

And, he added in an interview, the welfare system isn't in as bad a need for reform as is generally believed.

The image of the typical welfare recipient as a Cadillac-driving freeloader is far from accurate, he said.

Minter said "6 to 8% are going to find a way to get around the system no matter what. No matter what kind of program you have, there are people who right away are going to go to work trying to find a loophole."

He likened the situation to that of tax lawyers finding shelters for the rich.

Citing studies, Minter said only 3 or 4% of Midwest welfare recipients can be described as sandbaggers.

Valuation reduction criticized

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County Board Chairman George Buglewicz Saturday charged that Commissioner Michael Albert is irresponsible in calling for lowering property valuations in some sections of the county.

Buglewicz said the answer to the equalization problem is reappraisal to bring other areas up to the level of Brown Park. He said the Brown Park section of South Omaha is listed at 82% of its market value.

Buglewicz said the county could use its computer to obtain much of the information needed for a countywide reappraisal.

Backyard pool is vandalized

A backyard swimming pool at 2322 T St. was damaged by vandals early Sunday morning.

Le Roy Cole told police someone jumped his backyard fence, threw several large rocks in the pool, cut up seven inflatable toys and slashed the pool's filter hose.

The cut hose caused the filter to burn out, he told police. Damage was estimated at nearly $200.

Hampton scuttles claim of heavy council workload

At such time in the future as another City Council pay hike proposal is put up for voter approval, opponents of the pay raise can point to Councilman Joe Hampton as an example of why it isn't necessary.

Council members are overworked and underpaid, the argument goes. They must sacrifice plenty in terms of time, energy and money just to keep up with the ever-increasing demands of the council job.

But here is businessman Hampton, settling into his first term on the council, also reluctant to give up his third hat — that of elected member of the Lincoln Airport Authority board, a political post he has held for some 14 years. It would thus seem there is sufficient time to be a businessman-investor and a member of the council with time to spare for handling the property management, commercial air service and general aviation duties falling to authority board members.

All these claims about how time-consuming council work is may have been overblown, if Hampton's assessment of the situation is accurate. Or, now how can anybody claim, with a straight face, that airport authority service is much more than a one-day-a-month job?

It is almost with a cavalier attitude that Hampton views his holding two elective posts. "As of the moment," Hampton said last week, "it's my intention not to resign from the Airport Authority until the appropriate time. I've spent 14 years on the authority and I just can't walk away . . . there are a couple of things being done at the airport that I want to be involved in. I'm not saying I won't resign, but that I'll resign when it's appropriate. I have no intention of holding two jobs."

What we conclude from that apparent contradiction is that now is the appropriate time.

Over the years Hampton has contributed much to a board which has done an outstanding job of running the airport. But now he has chosen to expand his public responsibilities.

Granting the argument that voters ostensibly were aware that Hampton served on the airport authority when they elected him to the council, and recognizing that there apparently is no legal prohibition to serving in two elective jobs if one is non-paying (airport authority), other considerations come into play.

Can Hampton or any person do justice to two demanding public service jobs? Or is there really a lot less to either or both than has been claimed in the past? Is it advisable for one person to serve on two governmental taxing bodies?

It would be a much better situation all the way around if Hampton chose one job or the other. One public job is enough; indeed, it is often said one is too much.

Shapp caper tests donations curb

Jack Germond
Jules Witcover

Washington — The fact that the stillborn presidential campaign of Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp last year sandbagged Uncle Sam to the tune of nearly $300,000 no doubt will have some critics of public campaign financing singing a chorus of I-told-you-so's. They have been carping at the law, which put the W. Clement Stones of this world on the political sidelines for the first time in the history of the Republic, ever since it was enacted in 1974.

Stone, you will recall, is the Chicago insurance tycoon who personally pumped some three million bucks into the highly altruistic cause of keeping Richard Nixon in the White House in 1972. The law, among many other things, cut Stone and other gluttonous givers down to size, limiting everyone to total contributions to all presidential candidates of $25,000, of which no more than $1,000 could go to any one candidate. It can certainly be argued on the basis of the 1976 campaign, which saw candidacies starved at the grassroots level and made the bumper sticker and the campaign button collector's items, that the $1,000 limit is entirely too low. But the answer is to raise it, not eliminate the ceiling altogether and let Stone and his ilk smother the political process with their fat checkbooks.

The Shapp episode, rather than being an argument against the law, ought to be noted as a vindication. It demonstrates that the investigative arm of the Federal Election Commission can do its job, if tardily.

Some eager-beaver Shapp operatives, panicked by the fact their candidate was failing to qualify for federal matching funds, got corporations and individuals to make donations illegally in the name of others. The caper enabled Shapp to claim he had received $5,000 in contributions of $250 or less from each of 20 states, the requirement to qualify for the federal subsidy.

Now that an FEC audit has proved Shapp really had not qualified legally, he has been ordered to pay back the $299,066 he got from the feds. That is what enforcement of the law is all about, and one can speculate with some confidence that the lesson of the hapless Shapp will not be lost on candidates and their hirelings in 1980. Shapp has said he will make good the money, which he can do, being a millionaire.

According to the FEC, audits of all the other major 1976 candidates still underway have failed to turn up any similar irregularities, and the expectation as of now is that all will have been found to have operated within the law.

It's ironic that Shapp should have been slapped with the repayment order. Of all the 1976 candidacies, his was the most obvious loser. He was the certified nebbish of American politics when he tried to announce he was going to seek the presidency, at a national governors' conference in New Orleans in mid-1975, his press agents had to go around begging reporters to talk to him. And it never got any better. When longshot candidates enter the race, they're usually asked whether they aren't really running for vice president. Shapp was asked whether he wasn't really running for secretary of transportation.

Gov. Milton Shapp

In addition to putting future candidates on notice that they'd better not fake or finagle illegal contributions just to get their mouths into the federal trough, the Shapp case may serve another much needed purpose. It may give marginal candidates pause about entering the race, at all.

When the federal subsidy was first available in 1976, the procedure was untested, and candidates, assuming it would be easy to qualify, plunged in like country kids in a creek on a hot day. Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, for one, said on entering the race that raising the $5,000 in each of 20 states to get the subsidy would be duck soup. He barely made it himself and was one of the first candidates to withdraw.

There are problems with the federal subsidy, obviously. A way should be found to blow the whistle on illegal qualification before the subsidy is paid, but in the heat of the campaign, that is extremely difficult. Suppose, though, that the culprit had been Jimmy Carter, and it was disclosed that the $2.8 million he received in matching funds before the Democratic convention had been based on illegal contributions. The answer, clearly, is to beef up and improve the FEC's policing capability, not toss out the law that has made W. Clement Stone just another insurance man.

U.S. wears corruption crown

A Swiss public opinion research institute reports that citizens of Switzerland regard the United States and Italy as the two most corrupt countries in the world. Given historic mixed feelings about America, and recent lamentable events, that conclusion does not come as a great shock.

The polling organization, "Scope," asked Swiss citizens to name the nation with the highest level of corruption, according to a recent Sunday supplement story. Of those polled, 38% chose the U.S. while 21% said Italy. The young and the unemployed viewed the U.S. as most dishonest while the old and wealthy chose Italy.

Those findings are not surprising. Ambivalent feelings about the U.S. among those abroad go back as far as the beginning of our short history: the hope of the oppressed yet the bane of the oppressed; moral in official posture yet often hypocritical, immoral and amoral in action; violent yet worth the risk; loved as a people yet hated as individuals (or vice versa). It is not arrogant to suggest that these attitudes are often formed out of envy or disappointment and that exists to this day.

But recently this nation has done much to encourage those who think ill of us: Vietnam — no matter what good intentions we claimed at the outset — the political scandals epitmomized by Watergate; the international shenanigans of our multinationals and the CIA relating to the affairs of other governments and the deplorable business ethics exhibited by some of our biggest corporations dealing in international trade.

We have given people cause to believe the worst — and they will, especially when our historic behavior has pushed expectations skyward.

Possibly the worst part of it all is that many Americans tend to excuse much of the conduct by claiming that it is standard — that everybody does it.

But not everybody is rated most corrupt.

Some second thoughts on Israel's election

James Reston

Washington — The reaction to the Israeli election here has naturally been a little jumpy, but after the first official hiccup, the most thoughtful people have begun to take a more philosophic view.

In the first place, officials here recognize that Israel is just the first of the free nations to face an election this year — France, Japan, West Germany, Italy, Canada, and several others will be rolling the Democratic dice before long. So Washington is trying to remember that it is usually a mistake to confuse winning politicians with the nations they merely represent for a little while.

Everybody has been surprised and even startled here by the Israeli vote — how dare they elect an unfamiliar peanut farmer like Menahem Begin! — but on second thought, Washington seems to have decided to shut up, and wait, and hope.

The Carter administration, which usually spouts off on almost everything, seems to have understood that this is a time for a little judicious leaving-alone. Even the Congress has been comparatively quiet — only a crisis could stun them into such silence — and the friends of Israel on Capitol Hill have been more silent since the election than anybody else.

Some officials in Washington think that the rejection of the Israel Labor Party in favor of Menahem Begin and his Likud Party and other minority groups may be a good thing — may force Israel and its supporters in the United States and elsewhere to face up to the consequences of defying the Arab states, the United Nations, and even the United States, all of whom have been insisting that Israel abide by Resolutions 242 and 338 of the U.N., and give up most of the territories captured from the Arab states in the 1967 war.

The chances are that Peres, Rabin, Allon, and the other squabbling Labor leaders lost the election on personal and domestic issues — having lost the wisdom of that wonderful woman, Golda Meir, before they fell apart — but now Menahem Begin comes to power with a record of rejecting the compromises Washington insists are necessary to negotiate peace in the Middle East.

One of the most knowledgable Americans in this whole controversy interprets the future in these terms:

—"My first reaction," he said, "was that this election created a real mess but after thinking about it, I'm more hopeful. The real scope for a decision by the Israelis is very limited. Maybe it is better if the hard things that have to be done by Israel are done by those who like Menahem Begin always opposed them."

—"There are only two practical possibilities, in my view," he said. "If Begin sticks to the uncompromising policies he has followed all his political life, then there is going to be a monumental confrontation not only with the Arab states but with the United States, which he will lose. For President Carter, I think, has gone too far to back off. Or Begin will make a rational analysis of the situation once he has to take the responsibility of office, and will then negotiate a compromise peace. He really has no other choice."

—"Meanwhile," this observer concluded, "I think we in Washington should shut up. We're talking too much, and too ambiguously, and telling everybody what they want to hear. Now we have to wait and see what happens in Israel, and be ready to help, if we can, after they've considered what kind of policy the new government is going to follow in the future."

There are, however, some practical problems in the relations between the United States and Israel as a result of this election. Just before the vote, under intense pressure from pro-Israeli members of Congress, the Carter administration reversed a previous decision and agreed to the production of some modern new military aircraft in Israel.

Also, just before the election, President Carter, while supporting a "homeland for the Palestinians," proclaimed a "special relationship" between Washington and Jerusalem. But Menahem Begin opposes Washington's policy of giving up the Arab "occupied territories" — he calls them "liberated" territories — and claims Israeli sovereignty over the land Carter is discussing as a possible "homeland for the Palestinians."

Carter's principal aides are avoiding questions on such things now and for obvious reasons. There is no hurry, they say. They will think about producing U.S. military planes in Israel later, and decide on military aid appropriations, "after we see what happens."

When President Carter met the congressional leaders at the White House after the Israeli election, according to our information, he urged everybody in attendance to be patient. He agreed that the Israeli election complicated things, and might delay the process of trying to find a compromise Middle East peace at Geneva, but insisted that nothing "enduring" had happened.

U.S.-Israeli relations would sort themselves out in time, he insisted. It would be wrong to confuse politics and geography. Israel remained as she was: a democracy, with all its strengths and weaknesses, but still a vital interest of all the free nations, at the gateway of the continents. Maybe we should wait to see what the new Israeli government actually did.

Apparently Carter didn't say there was a difference sometimes between what politicians said when they were out of office and how they acted after they go in, but some of the congressional leaders thought he implied a difference — and he should know.

Color it dull

On Target

By Don Walton

Okay, let's take a look at this 1977 Legislature.

It has been a strange beast, unusually moody and lacking in spirit. Not really a very good companion for the past five months.

Why has it been that way? I dunno. Perhaps it was because most of its more colorful figures are gone. More likely it was because senators generally decided in advance that they just weren't gonna stir many waves this year and would adhere to a conservative spending pattern.

It's been a session of DEE-fense, DEE-fense, DEE-fense.

And punt. Wait until next year. Yes, that may be a good idea, or yes, more money could be wisely invested here, but this isn't the year. That doesn't make great drama. The goosebump count has been zip.

You know how generally dull it has all been when you suddenly find yourself attracted to what is really just a good-to-average floor debate. They have been so few and far between.

So this session has not been good theatre. But is that how you should judge a legislative session?

Of course not. Legislatures do not exist to entertain reporters.

Judge it by its product, man.

Okay. But, even then, it isn't likely to be a memorable affair.

If you are fiscally conservative, if you favor continuing the decade-long effort to push more of the tax load from property to sales and income levies, if you are generally laissez faire on social issues, this was your session, baby.

If you think change is in order — either institutionally or socially — this was not a biggie.

Last the big bills of the year and you won't find much that changes your life.

A new criminal code, but one that is still subject to change before its implementation date of July 1, 1978.

Increased state aid to schools, a proposal which would increase your sales tax rate while reducing the strain on property taxes. But it could be dead by sundown if supporters can't scrape up the votes to override Governor Exon's objections.

Increased tax exemptions appear on the way for farm and business property — at the expense of non-farm workers. Again, tax pressure would be pushed from property to sales and income levies. Eventually, however, the squeeze could boomerang back on property in the form of local real estate taxes.

A hold-the-line budget, candidly structured to keep state spending within the boundaries of current tax rates. In most cases, state agencies will be allowed to continue current programs at their present level. Additional funding is eaten up in inflation and employe salary hikes.

In a few instances, state agencies will be forced to cut back on their current level of service.

The University of Nebraska, always the focal point of budget deliberations since it spends the most in state tax money, will be allowed to stay about even. It won't take any strides forward or backward — although Medical Center officials are not so sure about the latter.

The budget battle over university funding has been one of the major shootouts in recent legislative sessions, providing much of the drama which marks the final hectic days of a dying Legislature.

And, recently, it has been the university which emerged the winner after governor and senators went to the mat.

This time, the budget battle was fought with popguns. The university decided to accept a lean diet after three straight years of budget feasts. And there, too, went much of the potential fury of the 1977 session.

So, the Unicameral is in its fading days. Three this week and a finale on June 1.

It has made few waves, barely even produced a ripple or two.

As Neil Diamond would say, the feeling was lay back.

Senators have endured their 90 days, waiting for the session to self-destruct. And, on schedule, it will.

The cause of death may be officially recorded as natural causes. But the pulse rate has not been good for months. This session got old before its time.

Somehow, I suspect, when it takes its last gasp next week, it will have succumbed to an advanced and unusually virulent state of tedium.

Criminal, not taxpayer, should compensate

Kevin Phillips

Washington — Besides painting themselves blue and worshipping dark forest gods, our Anglo-Saxon and Germanic ancestors employed a unique way of controlling violent crime, especially homicide. In the 9th Century England of Alfred the Great, homicide not only didn't pay — it cost.

Not in years, mind you, but in cash. There was no nonsense about 10-20 year terms of imprisonment (with time off for good behavior) in the Wessex or Northumbrian county dungeon. In an era of short tempers and long, brutalizing Danish invasions, imprisonment for much besides political crime was beyond the revenue of the state or the logic of the times. Kill a man, and you had to pay his value ("wergild") to his family. Either that, or you exposed yourself and your own relations to a legalized vendetta. To no small extent, historians agree, it worked (probably better than the current homicide laws of Texas or gun control laws of New York City).

Today, with jurists and legislators taking a new interest in compensating victims as well as punishing criminals, the old Anglo-Saxon system may merit some imitation. Take the violent criminal — mugger, murderer, rapist, kidnapper or whatever — and, upon conviction, put him to work for either the injured person or his surviving family. If the burden or injury suffered amounted to $50,000, for example, the criminal could be sentenced to ten years of prison-supervised compensatory labor (with his hypothetical earnings of $10,000 a year divided evenly between personal maintenance costs and restitution).

Should any state legislatures find this approach appealing, they may soon have a chance to try it. Congress is shortly expected to go along with a recent House Judiciary Committee proposal, supported by the Carter administration, to authorize $150 million of federal assistance over a three-year period for state victim-compensation programs. Victims of violent crimes could receive as much as $50,000 each to cover medical bills and loss of wages.

There's only one drawback — it's the taxpayer who pays. To some advocates, this constitutes a useful pressure. The American Bar Association, which has been pushing victim compensation since 1967, expects society's dollar burden — bound to grow as more victims are influenced to report more crimes — to "increase the likelihood that citizens will get involved against crime."

Well, maybe. But imposing the compensation burden on the taxpayers rather than the criminals would have been a roaring failure in 9th Century England, and it would probably also be inadequate in 20th Century Detroit or Houston. Taxpayer-based help for victims is only a first step.

I'm not quibbling with the idea of society becoming more concerned with victims. On the contrary. The recent upsurge in victim-assistance proposals — from imminent federal legislation to Harvard criminologist James Q. Wilson's call for establishing crime victim advocates sections in local prosecutor's offices — is certainly a step in the right direction.

But the real opportunity, after first establishing the theory of compensation, may lie in imposing it on the criminal, not society. Several national groups and foundation-sponsored studies are already looking into the idea of setting prisoners to work to help compensate their victims. After all, most Americans agree that tougher punishment must be an answer to violent crime, but tougher in what way? Putting more people in more jails may not solve anything, and it's expensive to boot (keeping criminals in jail costs anywhere from $12,000-20,000 a year each). Amputating the arms and legs of violent criminals, as historian Charles Mee and others have suggested, would run afoul of both civil libertarian outrage and constitutional prohibitions against cruel and unusual punishment.

Which leaves the principle of increased punishment via work requirements to compensate both victims and society. Perhaps convict labor could be used to erect dams, reforest land after strip-mining and even rebuild burned-out ghetto areas. A little of that would go a long way in deglamorizing street crime and street criminals. In parts of Detroit and the South Bronx, for example, 5-10% of the population could promptly (and usefully) be arrested and set to work on behalf of society in general and the hitherto victimized hard-working majority of the community.

With violent crime rates in many parts of the urban United States about on a level with those of Viking Era England, could it be time to borrow a few of their answers?

Editor's Note: This column of questions and answers about gardening is being prepared with the assistance of Brent Hoadley, Lancaster County horticulture agent. Questions are both submitted by readers and those most frequently asked of Dr. Hoadley.

Q. What time of year do you get rid of the violets in the yard? What do you use to get rid of them? L. L., Lincoln.

A. The violet is a difficult plant to control, but the best chemical to use is silvex which can be applied from now up to early summer or in the fall. Directions on label should be followed, with care taken not to use on hot days which could damage grass.

Q. The bottom sprouts of my brussels sprouts frequently don't head. The plants produce only large leaves until they get further up on the stalk. What am I doing wrong? L. C., Weeping Water.

A. This is not an indication that anything is wrong. Brussels sprouts are a difficult plant to get to mature during the heat of the summer. The plant starts forming at the base and develops further up on the stalk when the weather gets cooler nearer the fall of the year.

Q. Is 2-4,D harmful to pets? Lynn, Lincoln.

A. 2-4,D is a herbicide and if used according to directions on the label, it is not harmful to pets. The herbicide should be given time to dry on the foliage before pets are allowed back in the area.

Q. My green beans have some brown spots on the leaves. What causes these and what should be done about them? L. Christensen, Weeping Water.

A. Brown spots on bean leaves could be a disease problem such as rust. The best way to determine what they are and what to do about them is to bring a sample to your local garden store or to the County Extension office.

Q. My zoysia lawn died out in several areas over the winter and this spring. What is the problem?

A. This is probably the result of winter kill. The lawn may have built up crop residue (debris below the green portion) which resulted in more shallow rooted zoysia grass. The died-out areas should be replanted after removal of the detached area.

Q. My corn plants are being chewed off after coming through the ground. What should I do?

A. Corn cutworms are active now and are probably the culprit. Spray the plants with sevin.

Q. My older pine needles are being devoured. What is the problem?

A. Look for a gray-green larvae which has a dark head. These are pine saw-fly larvae which feed on older needles of pine trees. Malathion is probably the best control.

Q. My apple tree leaves are turning brown and beginning to fall off. What should I do?

A. This is usually caused by apple scabs. Spray with captan and maneb.

Q. My bean leaves are being eaten soon after they unfold. How can I control this?

A. Your bean leaves are probably being eaten by the variegated cutworm. Spray with sevin.

Q. How soon after spraying my beets, Swiss chard and spinach with sevin or diazinon can they be harvested for eating.

A. The residue from the spray will be depleted in about 14 days.

Q. How can I control the weeds in my new bluegrass lawn?

A. Broadleaf weed killer can be used after two or more mowings of a newly seeded lawn. However, directions on the label of the weed killer should be followed closely with care taken not to apply on extremely hot days.

Q. How can I protect my cherry trees from the birds?

A. About the only suitable control is to place a net over the tree.

Q. My pear trees are bearing fruit but the pears are shriveling up and falling off. What should I do?

A. The fruit trees probably didn't get pollinated and fertilized as they should have. There isn't much that can be done this season.

Beware of the vicious lawnmower

The voice of the lawnmower is being heard in the land.

And along with the roar and whine of the mower are cries of anguish from the victims of its powerful blades.

With at least 50 million power mowers whirring away, hospitals expect more than 125,000 patients to be rushed into emergency rooms this year with cuts, bruises, sprains, fractures — and worse — inflicted by the rotary and reel blades designed to keep lawns in trim.

The Department of Safety and Research of the Combined Insurance Company of America reports that most of the injured are victims of their own carelessness. While operators of mowers are the principal sufferers from their own negligence, the toll also includes innocent bystanders, mainly women and children who become targets of mishandled mowers and the sticks and stones they fling at bullet speed.

People have been killed or maimed when riding mowers have backed into them or flung stones. Operators of mowers have lost fingers and toes — and arms and legs — because of negligence and some have been crushed to death under overturned equipment.

The Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission cautions that driving a mower requires many of the same skills called for in operating an automobile. It is just as important to study the instructions that come with a mower as it is to pore over the manual in the glove compartment of a new car.

The National Electronic Injury Surveillance System, which compiles statistics on injuries treated at hospitals, says that 68% of all mower injuries occur when someone touches a moving blade. Twenty per cent result from objects hurtled by mowers. The rest are due mainly to electric shock, burns, problems with steering, stability, brakes and the drive-trains of riding mowers.

To help reduce the toll taken by mowers, the Combined Insurance safety experts recommend the following precautions:

— Never allow children or even other adults to operate your mower unless they fully understand its operation. Never allow young children to operate a mower nor allow a child to ride with you on your mower.

— Before turning on a mower, clear the lawn of objects such as sticks and stones that can be hurled by the blades.

— Concentrate on what you are doing. Never leave the mower running. Never remove grass or twigs without turning off the motor.

— Mow only in daylight or good artificial light

— Wear sturdy shoes — not sneakers (and never go barefoot) — and don close-fitting clothing that cannot become entangled in the machinery.

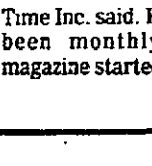

— Handle gasoline with care Never remove the gas tank cap or add fuel while the engine is running or hot. Let the engine cool before refueling Wipe up all spills. Never smoke while refueling.

— Try to mow only when grass is dry; wet grass is slippery and hazardous.

— When putting a riding mower into reverse, take special precautions to make sure no one, particularly a child, is behind you

Young mother fears Grandma will take total charge of baby

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are expecting our first child in August, and my mother has already notified me that she is coming to "help me" with the baby. This will be her first grandchild, so we can appreciate her eagerness to "help," but I hope you will publish this letter. It may save our happy relationship with Mom.

We want Mom to know that we have taken a course in how to handle a new baby, so if she really wants to help, she can pitch in and do the laundry, cleaning and cooking. But when it comes to handling the baby, that will be OUR responsibility.

All too often "Grandma" moves in to "help" and she takes charge of the baby completely, making the new mother feel as though she is not yet capable of being a mother.

I'd like Mom to know that I love her, but I'm fully prepared for motherhood, so if she's traveling 2,000 miles to "help" me, I hope she sticks to the housekeeping duties.

HER LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: If your mom doesn't see this, and makes the trip anyway, please let her hold her grandchild once in a while, dear.

She's not traveling 2,000 miles to do your laundry.

DEAR ABBY: We don't know whether we have a problem or not, but many of our friends have suggested that we might have.

Our son (I'll call him "Buddy") has asked if he could take ballet lessons. He is nearly 10, and is a perfectly normal boy in all respects, but this request of his has us worried.

His father is afraid this might be a sign that his son isn't going to be "all man," and I'm afraid we might not have any grandchildren. (He is our only child, and I've had a hysterectomy.)

Buddy is graceful and well-coordinated, having taken figure skating for two years, but his father had hoped he'd get interested in contact sports.

What is your thinking on this?

BUDDY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It takes a great deal of "manly discipline" for a boy to excel at ballet. If your 10-year-old son wants to take ballet lessons, don't discourage him.

DEAR ABBY: If the husband is all dressed up in a pale blue jacket and light slacks and looks like he's going to Hawaii, shouldn't the wife dress accordingly, instead of wearing a black gabardine suit like she's going to New York?

How can I tell these friends of ours that they look like they don't belong together? It's odd, and people talk.

Should I mention this to the wife? Or should my husband mention this to the husband?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I don't recommend talking to either one about it. More important than whether people "look" like they belong together is whether they FEEL like they belong together.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SILVER SPRINGS": All men do NOT cheat on their wives. But it's a pretty safe bet that the man who says that they do cheats on his!

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead — two of spades.

This deal occurred in the 1975 world championship in the match between France and the United States. The bidding went as shown when a U.S. pair were North-South. North's two diamond bid was artificial. It guaranteed a holding of at least five hearts and compelled South to respond two hearts, regardless of how many hearts he had.

The purpose of the two diamond bid — called a transfer bid — is that it enables the player who opened the bidding with one notrump, and presumably has the stronger hand, to become declarer in hearts.

After South responded two hearts, North jumped to three notrump, indicating his willingness to play the hand in either notrump or hearts. South now had a very difficult problem to solve, considering that he was exceptionally weak in both black suits. After thinking it over at length, he decided to pass.

This turned out to be the winning decision. With North holding the queen of spades and jack of clubs — both key cards — declarer had no trouble whatsoever making the contract.

When the French North-South pair at the other table played the hand, the bidding started precisely the same way. They were also playing transfer bids, and North likewise jumped to three notrump over two hearts. But at this table, South decided that three notrump was a shade too risky and he elected to go on to four hearts.

This turned out to be the wrong choice when West made the aggressive lead of a spade. The U.S. East-West pair quickly scored the A-K of spades and A-K of clubs to put the contract down one, thus taking full advantage of South's borderline decision of whether to pass three notrump.

'Just deduct it from my refund'

Aurora, Mo (AP) — What's the price of honesty? To Elaine Selvey, it's 47 cents.

Miss Selvey, an 18-year-old nursing student, figured the Internal Revenue Service owed her an $8 60 refund on her 1976 income taxes. She got a check for $86, told the IRS of its error, and the tax men responded by saying a letter of adjustment was on its way that she should enclose when she returned the check.

This week she received the letter — and a bill for 47 cents interest.

Miss Selvey said she will return the check, won't send the interest but that the government can deduct it from her $8.60 refund if it wants to.

Campbell sales up

Camden, N.J. (AP) — Campbell Soup Co. reported a 7% increase in sales for the third quarter over the same period last year, Campbell president Harold Shaub said.

Fortune more frequent

New York (AP) — Fortune magazine will be published biweekly beginning with the first issue in January, 1978, Time Inc. said. Publication has been monthly since the magazine started 47 years ago.

Experimental farm has lively little apple trees

By Dominick Costello
Farm Editor

Beltsville, Md — The Agriculture Research Service (ARS) experimental farm here has some of the most productive little apple trees in the world, thanks to Dr Miklos Faust of the ARS Fruit Laboratory

Smaller trees that can produce fruit for the home owner are popular because they don't take up much space and will still produce enough fruit if given proper care

Scientists have known for years that there are several ways to make fruit tree dwarfs What Dr Faust has done is combined several methods into a single super-small tree

"You can use a type of root that is small, or a hormone spray, or put in an interstem from a small tree, or use a spur type of stock with leaves closer together, or you can plant the tree in soil that will slow its growth," he said

The small root system works but you usually end up with a tree that has to be staked or it will fall over in the first good breeze that comes along

Faust has been using some hormone sprays to make the trees bloom and produce younger while restricting growth at the same time.

"The spray isn't available on the open market, but I think it will be in a couple of years," Faust said

Faust said there are some good news and bad news features about the dwarf trees for people who run orchards "They do use less chemicals for spray which is a desirable goal Total production from an acre is greater because you have more trees," he said

The bad news is that you have more work planting them, may have to stake every tree, and the cost of getting started is higher because you have to buy a lot more trees to plant your acreage

"It will take less water to irrigate, however, and the trees will produce much earlier, say in three or four years compared to 10 or 15 years in standard size trees," he said

Dr Faust said some home owners have purchased a dwarf tree only to watch it grow bigger than the house "They planted it too deep The tree grew roots from the stem above the graft so they ended up with a big tree instead of a small one," he said

Faust said he likes to have a small tree on a big root It is a good producer and the tree doesn't fall over in the first good wind

Faust has one tree no higher than a rose bush that has been producing more than a bushel of apples each year for several years The gnarled, little tree looks like a bigger version of a Japanese bonsi tree, but it is very productive as well as a conversation piece

Weekly Grain Report

By Dominick Costello
Farm Editor

For the first time in five years, most nations will experience a food surplus, according to a U S Department of Agriculture Foreign Agricultural Service report

There will be a gradual expansion of livestock numbers, but feed and food grains will be priced at or below the cost of production in most of the world

Wheat prices could drop as low as $1 50 a bushel at harvest time unless farmers increase storage

This would allow them to take advantage of the wheat loan program If you can't build more storage, then you had better sell some older wheat Only 1976 wheat can be put under the present loan program Presumably, 1977 wheat will be eligible this fall

As painful as it will be to sell the 1973-75 wheat supply, it would be better than taking $1 50 for the 1977 wheat

The problem is the lack of storage in country and terminal elevators Many elevators are adding space but most won't have it ready in time to store wheat It will be there for the feed grain harvest

The government's idea of holding down wheat prices to encourage feeding wheat is working, but it is a case of solving the wheat surplus problem by creating a feed grain surplus

Your local elevator will probably require you to sell your wheat at harvest time rather than take it for storage One alternative is a kind of purchase contract, but few will be able to accept wheat for storage under the long-term program of loans advocated by government

Check with your local elevator today to arrange for storage Don't put it off, because there just isn't any storage available in most communities

Postcard

By Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — Rose with the rosy dawn. And while coffee filled the scatter with $4-a-pound fragrance, popped in a couple of Vitamin Es. Sat back and waited for the recoil.

"Every nine years papaya trees reverse their roles. The male papaya tree become female and bears fruit. The female tree becomes male."

That should shake up Anita Bryant. Been doing a little clipping lately and started a file on "Sex." So far only came up with the fickle papayas.

All columns are into sex these days. Either that or you have to be an "investigative reporter." Sometimes both. As in the jackpot hit by the Washington reporters checking on Congressmen Wayne Hays. Found Elizabeth Ray, chatty as a bluejay on a summer day.

☆ ☆ ☆

We didn't get much sexy journalism when I was dyeing deep purple adjectives for the dailies. I interviewed talking dogs, but I never asked them about their sex lives. (I figures they'd either lie about it or start bragging.)

The girl moppet came home from school and said: "Guess what? Barbra Streisand has puppies!"

It turned out it was only Barbra Streisand, one of our dachshund's first litter. (I can't keep track of our animals and their offspring. They all have important names.)

I said to the dachshund: "Congratulations, grandma."

She put her head between her paws. Being a grandmother at three-years-old must be a shock.

☆ ☆ ☆

When I was reporting sex — (I think we referred to such cases as "human weakness") — we tiptoed all around the edges.

"He gave me a glass of champagne and forced me to do his bidding," said the chick I was interviewing. She was suing for breach of promise. (We had such laws then. You promised to marry her and welshed, she could sue you.)

I got out my paper and pencil: "What did he bid?" I asked.

"What do you think?" she said. Her lashes fluttered modestly over her eyes.

Well; I hardly knew what to think. For $50 a week, young reporters weren't supposed to think. For all I knew, maybe they were playing bridge. He was dummy. Made her do his bidding. No trumps.

☆ ☆ ☆

Columnists today are explicit. Their copy sounds like a bunch of doctors in a stuck elevator in the Medico-Dental Building.

Lovelorn columnists advise: "Throw the bum out."

Women's Lib writers are full of anger: "Too many women accept a placid ride on the swan boats of the Tunnel of Love as equal to the calliope music on the merry-go-round."

☆ ☆ ☆

Vitamin E — (Supposed to turn you into a sexpot) — doesn't seep through to the typewriter, blast it.

I moved to the suburbs. In paperback novels, suburban life was like love in a Texas tornado. But it turned out to be just a lot of housewives in curlers. Pinching the tomatoes at the supermarket.

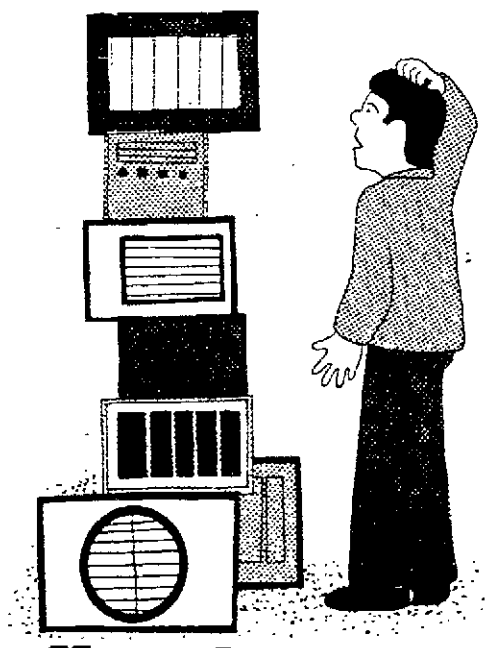

(Says the lovelorn columnist: "Why not try a change? Meet him at the door this evening in your filmiest negligee!")

☆ ☆ ☆

Thought some of investigating the new "encounter parlors." Not sure what I would encounter. At one time I was appointed a Kentucky Colonel, but I don't suppose you'd encounter mint juleps.

So all I could come up with was the undecided papaya. A kind of botanical orgy. You could call it that.

How to Select an Air Conditioner

Air conditioners are heavy energy users, so choose them carefully. A wrong choice will reduce comfort, and cost you money – in the initial purchase price, and in higher operating cost.

The cooling capacity of an air conditioner is measured in BTU's. A unit with a capacity that is too small won't keep you cool enough. One that is too large will cool too quickly and provide insufficient dehumidification, giving a cold clammy feeling. To be sure you select the proper size unit, have your dealer estimate your cooling load before you buy.

Also, ask your dealer to explain the efficiency of the units that you consider. You save on operating costs with more BTU's per watt. An air conditioner that removes 26,000 BTU's on 3,200 watts is twice as efficient as one rated at 13,000 BTU's and 3,200 watts. To compare units, divide watts into BTU's. The answer is in BTU's per watt, and the higher the better. This works almost like miles per gallon in your car.

Be sure to select an air conditioner that may be operated without using the compressor. This allows you to use the fans in the units to provide economical ventilation.

To obtain free information about air conditioner selection, including a formula to help you select the proper cooling capacity needed, call your Lincoln Electric Customer Service Representative.

Bell puts emphasis on accessories and carpeted platform to work around.

Decorator stresses 5 factors

Changes in accessories can give a room many personalities.

And the elements of the past can work well with the new in home decoration according to nationally known New York interior design specialist David E Bell

In a slide presentation shown at an interior design workshop at Davidson s American Showcase, Bell illustrates how classic and contemporary accents can be mixed with traditional furnishings for very effective results

According to Bell, there are five factors which should be considered in any decorating project budget function, lifestyle of occupants, architecture or room plan limitations and individual taste

The main attraction in any room should be the people who live in that room, Bell stresses adding that the same basic room can take on totally different looks depending upon the five basic factors and the individuals involved

By the addition of flowers, paintings, art pieces and pillows of varying styles and color schemes, the entire room can take on a different look with the same basic carpet, walls and sofa

Bell stresses the use of fresh flowers of all kinds and plants as part of the decor in a room. Vases don't have to be expensive — they may be old empty bottles or containers of various types

And flowers may even be weeds from the fields or those dried in kitty litter for use during winter months

"You can discover all kinds of places to put things, Bell said, illustrating how a platform can be built in one corner of the room, and carpeted to match room carpeting to tie it in as part of the total room dimension

This platform, which is easily constructed from plywood, provides an ideal area "for putting things" and decorating, and serves as an excellent background for sofa and other furniture pieces

The platform can also be constructed so it is portable and can be used or not depending upon changing tastes and needs of the occupants of the area

Bell illustrates how the basic room plan with the added carpeted platform in a basic carpet design, a basic wall-covering and plain sofa can be adapted for many individual tastes and needs

He shows that this plan can take on the personalities of a retired couple moving from a large traditional home into an apartment and condominium with some of their traditional furnishings and a limited budget with which to purchase new items

This basic plan can also be adapted for the young couple with more modern tastes and a less limited budget with which to buy art pieces and accessories, according to Bell

Bell also presents the same plan with the same basic carpeting, sofa and walls with accessories in bold vivid colors and those with more soft, subdued earth tones — each attractive and appealing to different tastes and moods

Lindy's famous recipe published for first time

By Craig Claiborne
(c) N.Y Times

New York — When Lindy's restaurant in Manhattan closed its doors — and ovens — in September, 1969, it was the end of a legend in more ways than one It was fabled for its sturgeon, corned beef and blintzes But most of all it was renowned for its cheesecakes, which were as integral a part of New York culture as Yankee Stadium, Coney Island, Grant's Tomb and the Staten Island Ferry

Approximately 20 years ago, shortly before his death, I approached Led Lindemann, the owner of the establishment, and pleaded with him to let me have the recipe for his cheesecake I was rewarded with a rather wan, benign and tolerant smile as though I had demanded the Kohinoor diamond

I now have what is purported to be that recipe It was offered to me by Guy Pascal, the distinguished pastry chef at La Cote Basque restaurant who is opening what promises to be one of the finest pastry shops in Manhattan, the Delice La Cote Basque

How Pascal came into possession of the recipe is a six-month study in intrigue, subterfuge and deception in and around the sugar bins and flour-barrels of a Las Vegas kitchen

The Case of the Purloined Recipe began when the young chef opened a small pastry shop in the kingdom of casinos over 10 years ago

"One day," Pascal said, "an old man came to ask for a job, and among his other credentials he told me that he had spent years in New York preparing the cheesecake at Lindy's At that time I'd never heard of Lindy's cheesecake, and I hired him in spite of the fact. Well, he started to make his dessert and my business started to boom, people were standing in line I was fascinated at the appeal of the cake So much so, I offered him money for the recipe He refused and I offered him more He still refused.

"He was such a stubborn old man I decided there was only one way I'd ever get that recipe I would have to, how should I say, borrow it?

"For weeks I didn't mention the cake When he worked he was pretty furtive in assembling his ingredients But I kept a strict account of the number of cakes he produced balanced against the amount of cream cheese he purchased I have very good peripheral vision, and out of the corner of my eye as the weeks passed I figured out the quantity of orange peel he used, how much lemon peel, the number of eggs and so on And after six months I had it perfected "

The result is being printed here and, as far as we know, it is the first time the famed recipe — or a reasonable approximation of it — has been published

Lindy's Recipe

Butter
½ cup fine cake crumbs or graham cracker crumbs (see note)
2 lemons
1 orange
1½ pounds cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup heavy cream
¾ cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
4 large eggs
1 tablespoons sour cream
¼ cup half-and half cream
1 Preheat the oven to 375 degrees
2 Generously butter an 8 by 2 inch round cake pan Sprinkle the inside with the crumbs, then shake out excess crumbs
3 Grate the lemons and orange Set the grated rind aside Use the lemons and orange for another purpose
4 Add the cream cheese to the bowl of an electric mixer Add the grated rind and vanilla, beating Gradually add the heavy cream and sugar, beating constantly on moderate speed The important thing to avoid in making this recipe is beating on very high speed This would incorporate air into the cheesecake and make the cake rise like a souffle Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition
5 Beat in the sour cream and half and half
6 Pour the mixture into the prepared pan and smooth the surface Set the pan in a larger pan and pour boiling water around it Place in the oven and bake one and one-quarter hours until the center does not quiver when the pan is shaken Remove from water bath and let stand on a rack about 10 minutes Invert and unmold while hot Let stand until cool
Yield 8 to 12 servings
Note Crumbs can be made from any day-old cake such as pound cake or genoise

Alligators become unofficial battleship mascots

Wilmington N C (UPI) — Three alligators have selected the water around the battleship USS North Carolina as their summer resort home

Amo Judd, the information officer for the retired battleship, said the whole thing started with Charlie, a giant gator which first appeared near the ship in the 1960s

Charlie has returned every summer for the chicken necks fed to him by battleship personnel Soon he knew his name and would come from the grassy shore when called

He was later joined by Charlene, a smaller alligator who also learned to respond to her name

Now there's Charlotte, a baby alligator.

Charlotte clowns in the water, jumps for food and, when nightly sound and light shows are held during the summer, tries to steal the show by cavorting in front of the stands

The World War II battleship also has a resident herd of turtles

Firm offers to buy 47% of Avis stock

Atlanta (AP) — The Atlanta-based conglomerate, Fuqua Industries Inc has disclosed it has offered about $58 million for 47% of the stock in Avis Inc

If the offer is accepted, Board Chairman J B Fuqua said it will then propose a plan to acquire the remaining 53% of the stock

Disappearing bet service leaves winner wondering

By Mark Gordon
Staff Sports Writer

Omaha — Would you be upset if you purchased an exacta ticket, watched the horses win and then went to cash the ticket at the mutuel windows only to find the window closed permanently?

If you are like other horseplayers, you'd be furious.

That's exactly the position an Omaha horseplayer is in after he discovered a disappearing horse race messenger betting service last week.

"It's the first complaint we've had so far," noted John Quist of Ak-Sar-Ben's security force. "We are trying to locate the service, but, so far, we can't get ahold of them."

According to Ak-Sar-Ben officials, the victim went to the "Horse Racers Edge" at 4831 Dodge St. last Wednesday and placed several bets.

One was a $3 exacta ticket on 11-6 in the fourth race which hit for $109.50. The man, who wished to remain anonymous, went back to collect his winnings on Thursday and guess what?

He found the place locked up. So he returned on Friday with the same result.

"I then called the landlord of the building to find out what was happening and he hung up on me," Quist explained.

"I knew the victim as a former federal employe," Quist continued. "This is why I think they (messenger services) are so bad.

"It's such a problem to have absolutely no control over them. There's a very fine line between them and illegal bookmaking. But who's to know how much of the money gets placed out here. There's dozens and dozens of unsavory persons connected with these things," he said.

Murdock Plattner, head of Coordinated Services Security, which provides security at Ak-Sar-Ben, explained there wasn't much his service could do.

"What could we do," he questioned. "We called the owner of the building and he hung up on us. Everybody was calling him. It's (messenger services) a violation of our commission rule. It causes problems for everybody. But there's nothing we can do."

Plattner explained on the back of the customer's betting slip, it said the Horse Racers Edge was a corporation and should have been registered. A check at the Douglas County Courthouse, however, showed it was not registered.

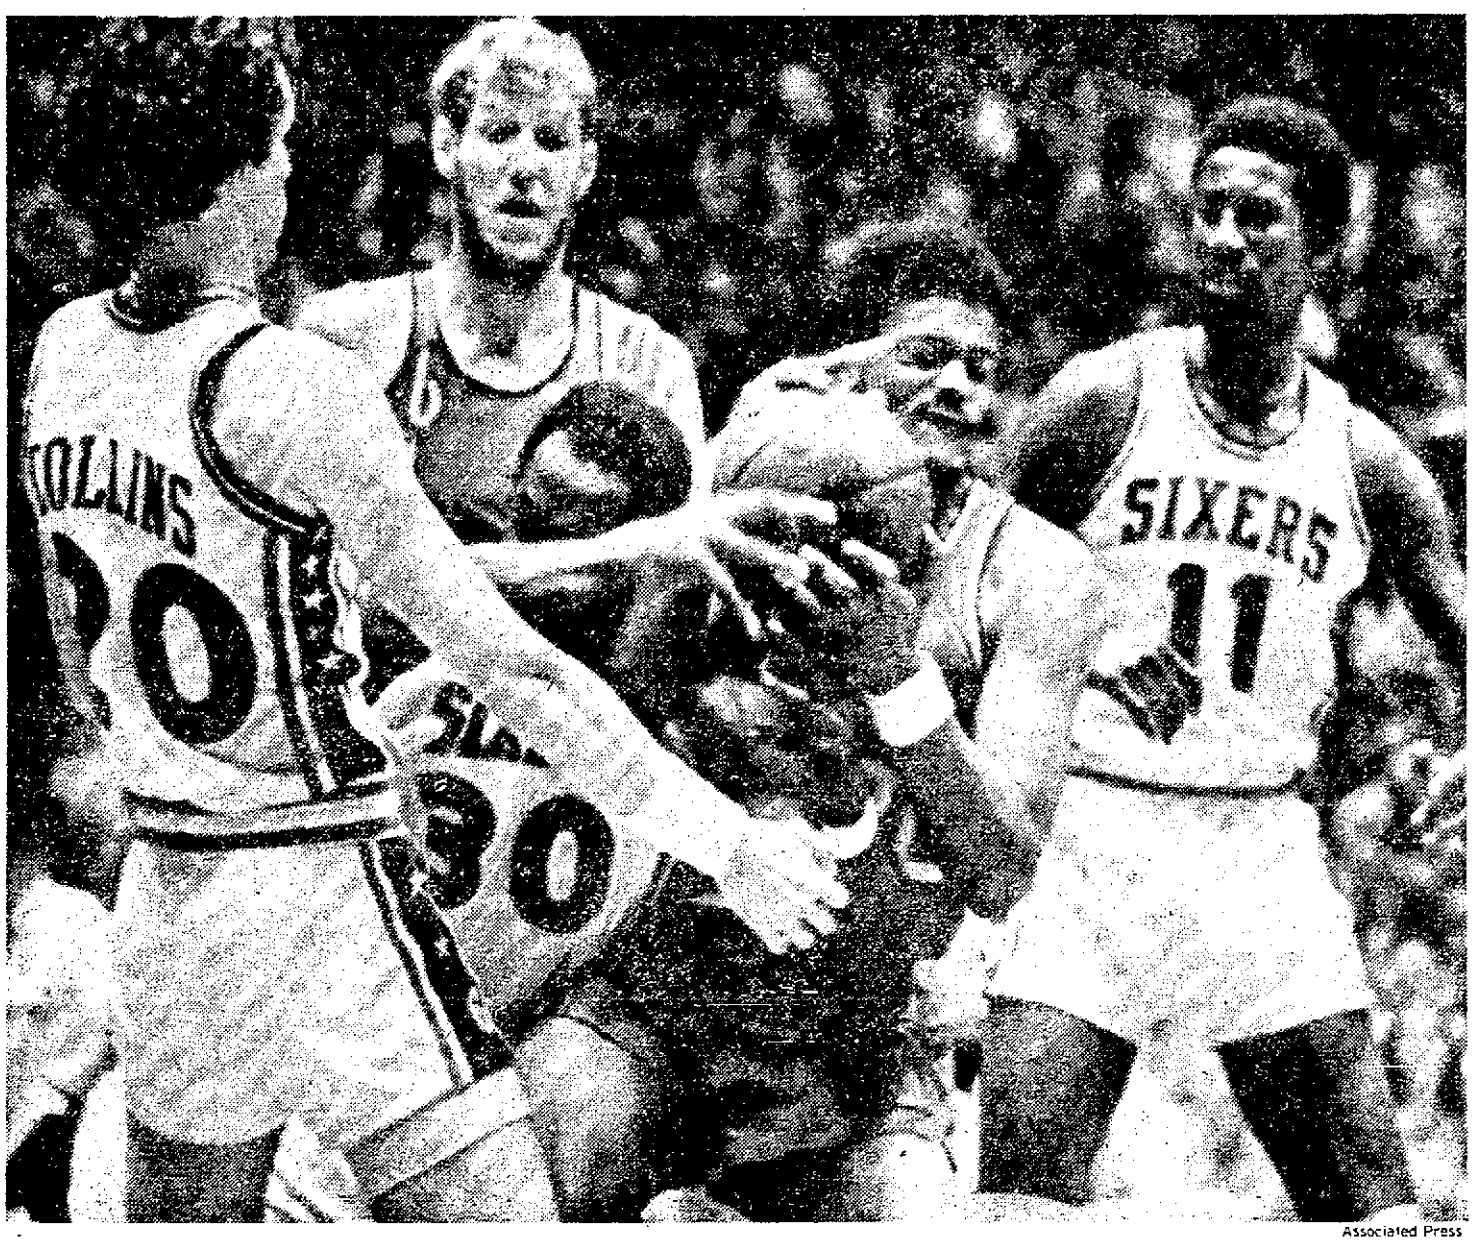

"This firm doesn't have an injunction (Pegasus, Inc. of Omaha is operating under a temporary restraining order). We'd throw them out if we could find them. But apparently he doesn't have any business," he said.

In a recent article in David Condon's Chicago Tribune column, Charles Bidwell, president of Sportsman's Park near Chicago, noted how the messenger services hurt his Chicagoland track.

"We had a good spring meeting in 1976. Arlington Park followed and did well until the messenger services began to mushroom," he told Condon." When there were about 130 messenger betting centers in Chicago, Arlington's handle began to plunge . . . We figure that messenger betting hurt our attendance by maybe 12 per cent."

"I'm convinced, however, that many of the operators are giving the tracks only the bets that they can't chance getting stuck with. I don't know how much of the money is handled by the messenger services, but I guarantee that if every bit of it was bet legally, the tracks wouldn't be in trouble. We're in trouble now."

Ak-Sar-Ben Notes — Ak-Sar-Ben will add a 10th race to each Saturday and holiday program starting this Saturday. The track was required to make up four races it lost during a rainstorm on May 4. This will add 11 races to the meeting. The feature on each Saturday and holiday will be run as the eighth race with exactas on the fourth, sixth and tenth races. Post time will continue on 2 p.m. on Saturdays and holidays . . . Through the first three weeks, Ak-Sar-Ben continued to show increases in attendance and mutuel handle over last year's record pace . . . The average attendance of 15,117 is 1.82 per cent higher than last year's 14,847 figure. The mutuel handle average of $1,317,869 is 6.68 per cent above last year's $1,235,372.

Portland's Maurice Lucas rips basketball from George McGinnis (30) as Doug Collins (20), Caldwell Jones (11) and Bill Walton watch.

Dr. J. 'uses skills' to spark 76ers

Philadelphia (AP) — Julius "Dr. J" Erving did everything but pump up the basketballs Sunday afternoon as he led the Philadelphia 76ers to a 107-101 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in the opening game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

Erving shot 14 for 24 from the field, five of five at the foul line, grabbed five rebounds, handed out four assists and made four steals in a bruising game that wasn't decided until the final two minutes.

"I felt I had a chance to use a lot of my skills today," said Erving, whose talents are judged by many basketball experts to be the best in the game. 3

"I felt that I went in spurts," said Dr. J, who scored 10 points in the first period, four in the second, 12 in the third and seven crucial points in the fourth period of the nationally-televised best-of-seven series opener.

"I was trying to be consistent, always trying to be a factor," said Erving as he held an icebag on one of his brittle knees. "At times I was a defensive factor, at times a scoring factor and at times a passing factor."

But Erving already was looking ahead to Game Two in the series here Thursday night.

"I don't think Portland will be intimidated," said the basketball magician. "Today, the ball bounced into the hands of both teams, but there will be a night when they will bounce into the hands of only one and we will have some high-scoring games before this is over. This was a relatively low-scoring game."

Portland rallied in the fourth quarter to reduce an eight-point 76ers lead to just two with 1:49 left on the clock. But Philadelphia's 6-foot-11 Daryll Dawkins collected three clutch free throws with 1:29 left to put the game out of reach.

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said an unorthodox offensive maneuver was a big factor in the 76ers' victory.

"We took away their pressure defense by having our centers take the ball up the court," Shue said. "The strength of the Portland team is in their guards and the pressure from their guards, so we attacked them at their weakest link, which is somewhere other than guard."

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said his team appeared over anxious. "I wasn't pleased with our over-all game. I don't want to single out any players, but we can play better offensively than we did. We had too many turnovers (15 in the first half, 34 for the game)."

Another key to the Philadelphia victory was 27-for-32 shooting at the foul line by a team which is one of the poorest free-throw shooting teams in the NBA. The 76ers averaged under 70 per cent during the regular season. Portland was hurt by losing Maurice Lucas, Bob Gross and Lionel Hollins on personal fouls in the hectic final period.

Doug Collins, the 76ers' outside sharpshooter, scored 30 points, while Portland's 6-11 Bill Walton got 26 points in the opener of this best-of-seven series.

Philadelphia broke open what had been a close, bruising contest with a 16-1 spurt in the third period. Erving, "Dr. J.," scored 10 points and Collins four in the drive which gave Philadelphia a 71-64 lead.

Portland came back with a 92 rally led by Larry Steele's five points and tied the game at 73-73 with 4:27 in the third period.

The 76ers, who earned the homecourt advantage for the final series with a better regular-season percentage than Portland, and the Trail Blazers meet in Game Two here Thursday night.

Collins collected two field goals and a pair of free throws, Caldwell Jones a field goal and Erving a bucket as the Eastern Conference-champion 76ers pulled away to an 83-75 lead with 1:16 left in the third quarter.

They maintained that eightpoint advantage at 86-78 starting the final 12 minutes.

The Trail Blazers scored eight of the first 10 points in the final period, reducing the Philadelphia lead to 88-87 on a basket by Walton with 8:48 on the clock. Then Erving took the game into his hands, driving the length of the court for a field goal and winding up with a three-point play.

After Herman Gilliam hit for the Blazers, Erving drove for another field goal and Jones sank a pair of free throws to make it 95-89 with 6:37 to go. The Sixers boosted it to 101-93, outscoring Portland 6-2 with Henry Bibby, Erving and George McGinnis each contributing field goals.

Trophy no decoration to Spartans' Eyth

By Randy York
Prep Sports Editor

Bob Eyth did what millions of other Americans did Sunday afternoon. He watched the first game in the Portland-Philadelphia series for the NBA basketball championship.

Lincoln East's track coach, however, might have won a contest for being the least interested viewer . . . or at least the most spaced out one.

"I think during most of the game, I had one eye on the action and the other eye on top of the TV," Eyth said, referring to a huge Nebraska School Activities Assn. (NSAA) trophy on his stereo console in the basement.

Knowing the trophy gets only a one-day appearance in his home, Eyth was understandably proud of the decoration.

To Lincoln, East's Class A track championship in Omaha Saturday ended 17 years of title drouth in the sport. To Eyth, it represented a lot of sweat, dedication and sacrifice on the part of the nine Spartans who scored in the state meet.

"There was individual sacrifice for the sake of the team to make this happen," Eyth noted. "Brian Dunnigan had tears running down his cheeks."

They were tears of joy, not tears of disappointment for not winning a gold medal.

"We all feel we made the right decision running Brian in two relays in addition to his second place finishes in the mile and 2-mile," Eyth said.

"We had to have him to win that two-mile relay. I honestly believe if he hadn't had to run that Friday night, Brian would have beaten (Omaha Burke's) Paul Schultz in the mile Saturday."

No one, least of all Dunnigan, questioned Eyth's decision.

"Brian went up to Jeff Keeler after he got his gold medal in the triple jump and told him: 'I've always wanted one of those, but I'm glad you got it,'" Eyth related.

"There's been that type of evidence throughout the season that we don't have any individuals — it's all team," Eyth said. "It didn't all crop up the last two days."

The East coach also pointed out that Tim McCashland ran five races Friday and Saturday. "He may have only gotten a couple of sixths in the 440 and 880, but it's the emotional thing," Eyth said. "You ask kids to do a lot. Tim ran a 1:59.5 leg on the two-mile relay. We wouldn't have won it without him."

Eyth also insists East couldn't have won without the dedication of his assistant coaches, Rob Armagost and Ed McPherren. "They're the last to leave the practice field because they want to, not because they have to," he said.

One rather startling fact humbled Eyth over the weekend in his Spartans' drive for the Capital City's first state track title since Lincoln High in 1960.

"Our school is only 10 years old," he said. "When I heard the Creighton Prep coach (Lynn Groff) talking about his school being 100-years-old next year and never having won the championship, my mouth sort of dropped open just thinking about that caliber school in comparison to our relatively new one. (Prep did edge Bellevue and East for grand championship honors Saturday.)

Eyth hosted between 30 and 40 celebraters late Saturday and early Sunday.

"We just sat around and reminisced," he said. "No way could my wife and I have sat around and not done something."

Congratulatory phone calls were still ringing at the Eyth house in East Lincoln Sunday night. Rival coaches Harold Scott of Lincoln High, Clayton Luther of Northeast and Jon Appleget of Fremont were among the first to congratulate Eyth.

"Those are the kind you appreciate most," he said. "That's what makes a guy enjoy being a part of high school coaching."

Lincolnite Sterns gains second win

By Ken Hambleton
Staff Sports Writer

Until last week, Jay Sterns hadn't won a feature race for stock cars at Midwest Speedway in two years.

But an almost flawless performance Sunday night helped Lincolnite Sterns capture his second straight 25-lap main event title before 2,000 fans at Midwest.

Sterns captured the lead on the final turn of the first lap and streaked away from Craig Lockhart and Rex Nun to gain the win.

Sterns had actually gained the lead on the previous lap but an accident on the backstretch forced a restart and Sterns had to start over again from his second row starting position in the 18 car field.

On the first lap, Dick Jensen, last year's point champion, was bumped and spun twice before halting sideways in the backstretch. Most of the cars behind Jensen's avoided the stalled auto, but Ray Lipsey and Rick Hergott slammed into its side forcing the restart. No one was injured in the wreck.

While Sterns faced minimal problems through the race Lockhart, who placed second and Nun, who finished third, and two cars battling for fourth place fought continuously.

"I had chosen the wrong tires for the track and couldn't get through the turns with any speed," said Lockhart. "I knew I couldn't catch Sterns, but I was trying to hold onto second with all my might."

Lincolnite Nun pressed Lockhart and twice ran into the rear of Lockhart's car, but couldn't find an opening to pass.

Les Schafer passed two cars and moved into fourth place on the fifth lap with Stu Vavra and Droud close behind.

But Schafer's car overheated in the second turn and with Droud on his bumper, Vavra slipped into fourth.

Two laps later, though, Droud, caught Vavra on the backstretch and finished fourth, while Vavra placed fifth.

Eldon Thompson of Geneva, captured the B feature and the B trophy dash, leading from start to finish.

Ken Ganskow, who ran behind Thompson throughout the 15-lap race finished in second easily, but the battle for third was intense.

Dave Ferguson seemed to have third place until he spun on the third turn of the final lap, and Steve Frentess and Paul Porath raced to the finish with Frentess gaining third and Porath fourth. Ferguson got turned around and managed to finish seventh.

Sterns, who scored a sweep last week, winning his heat, the trophy dash and the main feature, was edged by Lockhart in the trophy dash.

Heat winners included Sterns, Lockhart, Les Siebert, who placed sixth in the geature, and Nun.

First heat (10 laps) — 1, Craig Lockhart, Red Cloud; 2, Les Schafer, Garland; 3, Gene Hromas, Ulysses; 4, Dennis Parker, Lincoln.

Second heat (10 laps) — 1, Les Siebert, Cordova; 2, Stu Vavra, Milligan; 3, Rick Pavlick, Hickman; 4, Gary Hergott, Hebron.

Third heat (10 laps) — 1, Rex Nun, Lincoln; 2, Don Droud, Lincoln; 3, Rick Hergott, Hebron; 4, Dan Pred, Bennet.

Fourth heat (10 laps) — 1, Jay Sterns, Lincoln; 2, Dick Jensen, Aurora; 3, Ray Lipsey, Lincoln; 4, Ken Kover, Lincoln.

A Trophy dash (6 laps) — 1, Lockhart; 2, Sterns; 3, Nun.

B Trophy dash (6 laps) — 1, Eldon Thompson, Geneva; 2, Ken Ganskow, Lincoln; 3, Dave Ferguson, Lincoln.

Consolation race (10 laps) — 1, Dallas Kadavy, Lincoln; 2, Kermit Ekstrum, Lincoln; 3, Ron Boehler, Lincoln.

B Feature (15 laps) — 1, Thompson; 2, Ganskow; 3, Steve Frentess, Lincoln; 4, Paul Porath, Lincoln; 5, Bob Hansen, Lincoln; 6, Kent Schwenn, Lincoln; 7, Dave Ferguson, Lincoln; 8, Ron Boehler, Lincoln; 9, Kevin, Olson, Lincoln; 10, Jim Leigh, Lincoln.

A Feature (25 laps) — 1, Sterns; 2, Lockhart; 3, Nun; 4, Droud; 5, Vavra; 6, Siebert; 7, Hromas; 8, Reed; 9, G. Hergott; 10, Ekstrum; 11, Pavlick; 12, Kover.

Henrion is the USGA official in charge of the Nebraska sectional qualifying round.

Entries must be made directly by players and must reach the USGA by 5 p.m. June 15. Applications late or incomplete will not be accepted.

Championship play by qualifiers will be held July 26-July 30 at Ohio State University, Scarlet Course, in Columbus, Ohio.

People pick quality of life over economic gains

By Louis Harris

The American people have begun to show a deep skepticism about the nation's capacity for unlimited economic growth, and they are wary of the benefits that growth is supposed to bring. Significant majorities place a higher priority on improving human and social relationships and the quality of American life than on simply raising the standard of living.

The latest Harris Survey sheds some significant and sometimes startling light on current American thinking:

—By 79-17%, the public would place greater emphasis on "teaching people how to live more with basic essentials" than on "reaching higher standards of living."

—By 76-17%, a sizable majority opts for "learning to get our pleasure out of non-material experiences," rather than on "satisfying our needs for more goods and services."

—By 59-33%, a clear majority would stress "putting real effort into avoiding doing those things that cause pollution" over "finding ways to clean up the environment as the economy expands."

—A lopsided 82-11% would concentrate on "improving those modes of travel we already have"; only 11% would emphasize "developing ways to get more places faster."

—By 77-15%, the public comes down for "spending more time getting to know each other better as human beings on a person to person basis," instead of "improving and speeding up our ability to communicate with each other through better technology."

—By 63-29%, a majority feels that the country would be better served if emphasis were put on "learning to appreciate human values more than material values," rather than on "finding ways to create more jobs for producing more goods."

—By 66-22%, the public would choose "breaking up big things and getting back to more humanized living," over "developing bigger and more efficient ways of doing things."

—By 64-26%, most Americans feel that "finding more inner and personal rewards from the work people do" is more important than is "increasing the productivity of our work force."

—By 59-26%, a majority feels that inflation can better be controlled by "buying much less of those products short in supply and high in price" than by "producing more goods to satisfy demand."

Taken together, the majority views expressed by the cross section of 1,502 adults in this Harris Survey suggest that a quiet revolution may be taking place in our national values and aspirations.

Supermarket banking units planned here

Associated Press

Lincoln's National Bank of Commerce (NBC) wants to place customer bank communication terminals in the capital city's nine Safeway supermarkets.

Called "bank-in-the-box" terminals, the devices for electronic transfer of funds would be located at customer convenience counters if the bank proceeds.

That would hinge on approval of an application filed with the Comptroller of Currency to comply with the federal banking regulatory process.

Jim Nissen, NBC president, acknowledged the Safeway idea is a kind of ace in the hole in case the U. S. Justice Department bars a statewide electronic transfer system.

Nebraska Electronic Transfer System was warned of possible legal action by the Justice Department unless the federal legal branch can get adjustments in the NETS operation to satisfy current objections.

All can get relief

Des Moines (UPI) — All 99 Iowa counties have been designated emergency drought impact areas, making residents eligible for certain federal assistance funds, Gov. Robert D. Ray's office has announced.

Kappa Kappa Iotans elected

Mrs. Evelyn Burton, of Omaha, was elected president of Kappa Kappa Iota at the organization's state convention Saturday.

Other state officers include Mrs. Edna Reimer, president-elect; Mrs. Edna Akeson, first vice president; Mrs. Mearle Rush, second vice president; Mrs. Sharon Meyer, third vice president; Mrs. Sandra Hahn, secretary; Mrs. Evelyn Sue Richards, treasurer; Mrs. Esther Yung, executive post 1; Mrs. Della Connell, executive post 2; Mrs. Constance Bottger, executive post 3 and Mrs. Helen Shaw, national nominating committee delegate.

Shirley Young, of Omaha, received a $100 Kappa Kappa Iota scholarship.

A tribute to our firemen!

When fire breaks out at four o'clock in the morning, your alert hook-and-ladder guardians are instantly on the job. Heroically, and oft-times tragically, these brave men in helmets think only of YOU, your family, and the protection of your property. The Fireman is an integral part of our City Government. He must be always physically fit. He must respond without hesitation at the clang of the bell. Night and day, summer and winter, he must be on call to fight the flames and scale the towering ladder. He is a man of ACTION, upon whom all of us depend. We salute his bravery and commend his faithfulness!

Boston, Brewers slam 11 homers

United Press International

The Boston Red Sox collected 15 hits and combined with Milwaukee to tie a major league record of 11 home runs in slugging their way to a 14-10 opening-game victory Sunday In the nightcap, Boston could manage only two hits as they were shut out by Ed Rodriguez, 2-0

In the first game, George Scott's second career grand slam highlighted a seven-run Red Sox' eighth inning and gave reliever Bill Campbell his third victory Don Money and Fred Lynn each had a pair of homers in the three-hour slugfest.

Rodriguez made it look easy in the second game, facing just 30 batters and striking out eight Jim Wohlford drove in four runs for the Brewers with a single, an infield out and his second home run in three seasons

Elsewhere, the Yankees and Orioles split a doubleheader, Baltimore taking the first game 5-1 and New York winning the nightcap 8-2, Detroit walloped Chicago 14-3, Minnesota downed California 8-5, Cleveland beat Kansas City 7-1 and Seattle downed Oakland 6-2

Graig Nettles' three RBI, including a two-run homer, and the combined four-hit pitching by Ron Guidry and Dick Tidrow gave the Yankees a split, but they remain half a game behind the first-place Orioles In the opener, Rudy May scattered seven hits in defeating his former Yankee teammates for the fifth straight time Baltimore rookie Eddie Murray knocked in two runs with a bases-loaded single

Jason Thompson knocked in five runs and rookie Dave Rozema ran his record to 4-1 to lead the Tigers to victory Rozema pitched his fifth complete game of the season, despite yielding 12 White Sox hits, and Thompson hit a threerun homer in the first inning off loser Wilbur Wood — making his first start in over a year due to a knee injury

Craig Kusick's pinch-hit, three-run homer capped a fiverun Minnesota rally in the sixth inning and the Twins held on to increase their first-place lead over the White Sox to two games Kusick greeted Angel reliever Don Kirkwood with a towering blast over the center field fence

Jim Bibby, 3-1, went the distance and yielded seven hits and Buddy Bell went 4-for-4 in the Cleveland victory Bell hit three singles and a solo homer and finished the three-game series against the Royals with eight hits in 12 at-bats

Seattle battered three Oakland pitchers — including losing starter Vida Blue — for 13 hits and Dick Pole went five innings for his first win of the season Danny Meyer knocked in three runs with four hits for the Mariners, while Pole combined with Enrique Romo to limit the A s to just three singles

Pirate bats silence Dodgers

United Press International

Tempers flared at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Sunday, but the Pirates did their talking with home runs and the Dodgers had no reply

Dave Parker belted a grand slam and a solo homer and Omar Moreno and Al Oliver also hit homers to power Pittsburgh to an 11-4 romp over Los Angeles Dodgers in a game marred by two near-donnybrooks

John Candelaria, unbeaten in six decisions, helped his own cause with two RBI singles The left-hander gave up nine hits and the first three Dodger runs, including solo homers by Dusty Baker and Lee Lacy before being lifted for Kent Tekulve in the eighth In the second, Candelaria stroked his first run-scoring single and Moreno homered to erase a 1-0 Dodger lead

Dodger starter and loser Don Sutton, 6-1, was lifted midway through the fourth when the Pirates scored five runs, capped by Parker's slam Sutton, who had a 1 74 ERA going into the game, was charged with seven runs Al Downing gave up Parker's grand slam, a low liner that barely cleared the left field fence

The game was interrupted twice — in the second and eighth innings — after Dodger pitchers were warned for throwing at Pittsburgh hitters

In the second, Sutton hit Frank Taveras, who charged the mound as both dugouts emptied Taveras was restrained by Dodger catcher Steve Yeager, however, before any blows were thrown Both dugouts emptied again in the eighth when Elias Sosa was warned by plate umpire Ed Vargo for brushing back Rennie Stennett after yielding back-toback homers to Parker and Oliver Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda was ejected from the game in the inning for not ordering his hurlers to stop throwing at Pirate batters

In other games, Philadelphia beat Houston 6-3, Montreal trimmed San Diego 3-1, Atlanta stopped Chicago 5-2, San Francisco blanked St Louis 2-0 and Cincinnati split with New York, winning 8-1 before losing 4-3 in 11 innings

Larry Bowa drove in three runs with a pair of doubles while Bob Boone went 3-for-4 and tripled home two others to boost the Phillies over the Astros

Steve Rogers tossed a sixhitter and the Expos took advantage of four wild pitches by John D'Acquisto to snap an 11-game losing streak at the Padres' expense Rogers, 5-3 struck out a career-high 11 batters and walked one in hurling his sixth complete game

Andy Messersmith, with brilliant late-game help from Jamie Easterly, outdueled Bill Bonham and Paul Reuschel as the Braves downed the Cubs to gain a split in a four game series Atlanta's Jeff Burroughs socked his 10th homer

Jim Barr, 6-4, and reliever wgary Lavelle combined for a seven-hit snutout and Willie McCovey singled in a first-inning run as the Giants defeated the Cardinals Gary Thomasson homered and Lavelle picked up his fourth save

In the Reds-Mets opener Johnny Bench hit a three-run homer and Bob Bailey added a two-run, bases-loaded single to lead Cincinnati's first-game victory In the nightcap, Dave Kingman led off the 11th with a double and scored one out later on Mike Phillips' single to earn the Mets a split

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Baseball

Merv Rettenmund's three-run homer off reliever Jeff Terpko in the 21st inning gave the San Diego Padres an 11-8 victory over the Montreal Expos in a marathon 5½-hour game which started Saturday night and ended Sunday morning. A total of 41 players were used in the game which ended at 1:15 a.m. (EDT).

Montreal's Dave Cash tied a major league record for 11 at bats in the marathon contest. Dave Schneck of the New York Mets was the last players to have 11 at bats in a game which lasted 25 innings in 1974.

Other baseball

The Oakland A's announced Sunday the trade of pitcher Stan Bahnsen to the Montreal Expos for infielder Mike Jorgensen.

Veteran right-handed pitcher Jim Willoughby of the Boston Red Sox suffered a broken right ankle while shagging fly balls in the outfield before a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers.

The Houston Astros Sunday announced the signing of catcher Joe Ferguson to a five-year contract. Astros' General Manager Tal Smith said it was the longest contract an Astro player had ever signed.

Other sports

Vitas Gerulaitis beat Antonino Zugarelli of Italy 6-2, 7-6, 3-6, 7-6 Sunday and became the first American to win the men's singles in the Italian Tennis Open since 1960. Brian Gottfried and Paul Ramirez won the men's doubles title by defeating the U.S. Davis Cup pair of Fred McNair and Sherwood Stewart 6-7, 7-6, 7-5.

Miguel Cuello, by capturing the vacant World Boxing Council light heavyweight championship, has set up the first attempt by a boxer from a Communist country to win a world professional boxing title.

Switzerland's Clay Regazzoni, who crashed during a qualification attempt for the Indianapolis 500 a week earlier, missed the Grand Prix of Monaco on Sunday but made the Indy starting field with a run of 186.047 miles per hour.

Kemlings, Williams win Fonner titles

Grand Island — The Kemling Brothers Stable of Aurora continued its domination of the Fonner Park owners title by winning its fifth straight crown.

The stable set a Fonner record with earnings of $82,847. The stable's top horse, Amadevil, trained by O. D. Kemling, was the leading money-winning horse with two victories collecting $14,700.

Kemling took the trainers' title while jockey R. D. Williams won the top rider trophy with a record-tying 50 wins. That tied the mark set by Fred Ecoffey in 1972.

Fonner distributed a record $937,309 in purses with added money of $35,800 counting for total purse distribution of $973,109. Breeder awards paid to Nebraska thoroughbred breeders was $28,516.20.

OU rips MU, 16-6

Oklahoma City (AP) — Led by Terry Bogener, the Oklahoma Sooners unloaded on the Missouri Tiger pitching staff and waltzed to a 16-6 victory and the Big Eight Conference baseball championship here Sunday afternoon.

Bogener was five-of-six from the plate, including three singles, a double and a triple. He also stole three bases and personally accounted for four runs.

As a team, the Sooners slammed 23 hits, and, after a 1-1 first inning tie, were never in trouble. The Tigers got 11 hits, but also committed nine errors.

Notching his four victory behind the barrage of hits was Scott Gardner. Tiger starter Tom Bloemke got the loss to finish his season at 9-4.

With the victory, the Sooners raised their record to 36-9, landed eight players on the 12-man all-tournament team and advnced to the Midwest Regional.

OU pitcher Mark Nipp, who shutout Missouri for 12 and two-thirds innings in two appearances was named the tournament's outstanding player.

Joining him were teammates Roger LaFrancois, Gary Krug, Mike Cunico, Tommy Thompson (the entire infield), Gary Thweatt and Bogener.

Also named to the team were Bloemke and teammates Al High Tower and Tim Laudner, and Kansas' Ron MacDonald.

Rains halt golfers

Dublin, Ohio (UPI) — The third rain delay of the day forced suspension of play Sunday in the final round of the $225,000 Memorial Golf Tournament at the Muirfield Village Golf Club, with host Jack Nicklaus holding a two-shot lead over Hubert Green.

Play was suspended twice but resumed after the second stop of two hours and 20 minutes. A third storm, with more lightning than rain, halted play for good with 10 players still on the course.

The three remaining threesomes, plus defending champion Roger Maltbie — who refused to continue, although his playing partners, Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Devlin holed out — will conclude their round starting at 9 a.m. Monday.

Nicklaus, who started the day a shot behind young Bobby Wadkins, assumed command of the tournament, being played on the Muirfield layout he designed. Wadkins fell from a tie with the Golden Bear by double-bogeying the ninth hole.

From there until play was suspended, Nicklaus never held less than a two-shot lead.

Belmont to open despite strike

New York (AP) — Belmont Race Track will open as scheduled on Monday, despite a strike by parimutuel clerks, but there will be no wagering at the track, a spokesman said Sunday.

Off-Track Betting will have wagering on Belmont races, the spokesman said. He said that because of the strike and lack of wagering, admission and parking would be free. The first race will begin at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

Also, the spokesman said, instead of the normal programs, sheets would be given out with the entries for each race.

Clerks, who have come to an impasse in bargaining with the New York Racing Association, went on strike at Aqueduct Thursday, forcing cancellation of the Roseben on Saturday when three-time Horse of the Year Forego was to have made his debut.

Horton, Allen mixed champs

Kevin Allen fired a 691 and Ollie Horton shot a 589 Sunday as the two teamed for a 1280-42—1322 to take the mixed doubles title in the Bowl-Mor doubles tournament. Their score, on the final day of the tourney, bettered the previous leaders' score by 100 pins.

Ken Christ (614) and Doug Christ (703) came up one pin short in their bid to unseat the No. 1 men's combination of Denny Phillips and Kevin Alley (1379-0—1379).

Debbie Van Horne and Doris Craig stayed in front in the women's doubles race with a 1047-150—1197. Pat Craig and Sharon Shelley won the scratch trophy in women's competition.

Phillips and Allen won the men's high scratch trophy with a 1379 and Horton and Allen took the mixed scratch title with a 1280.

NETV to show meet highlights

Highlights of the 1977 Nebraska High School Boys Track Meet will be seen in a one-hour special program June 4, at 4 p.m. on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

This year's track meet featured 1,050 boys representing 285 schools. Lincoln sportscaster Dick Janda will act as program host and provide commentary.

McGee named top player

Detroit — Omaha North's Mike McGee, twice the Sunday Journal and Star prep basketball Player of the Year, received the Dave Bing Superstar Trophy as the outstanding player in the 10th annual Michigan Roundball Classic at Detroit University here Saturday.

McGee scored 36 points and retrieved 19 rebounds to lead a U.S. all-star team to a 108-99 win over a group of Michigan all-stars.

McGee broke the single-game scoring record of 33 points set seven years ago by George Gervin, now with the NBA San Antonio Spurs.

Rugby team loses finale

Madison, Wis. — The University of Wisconsin B team defeated the Lincoln Rugby Club, 11-8, Sunday in the Lincolnites final match of the season.

The Lincoln Rugby Club, which finished its season 3-5, was led by Steve Martin and Jay Sonderup.

The Lincoln Rugby Club's women's team forfeited to Wisconsin and Michigan State.

Whitworth wins LPGA Classic

Jamesburg, N.J. (UPI) — Texan Kathy Whitworth sizzled on the front nine and then coasted to a final-round 67 Sunday for a 54-hole total of 11-under-par 202 and a three-stroke victory in the $77,000 LPGA classic at Forsgate Country Club.

Donna Caponi Young, who entered the final round one shot behind Whitworth, carted a final-round 69 for a 205 and second place.

The $11,500 top prize boosted Whitworth, the all-time moneywinning leader, to career earnings within $308.50 of $700,000. The win was her 80th on the tour but the 79th official victory, leaving her three short of all-time leader Mickey Wright's 82 wins.

Whitworth, who led the tournament from start to finish, left little doubt as to the outcome at the start of play. She made birdie putts on four of the first six holes to open a six-shot lead as she finished the front nine in four-under-par 32.

"At the start, I was nervous," explained Whitworth, a 17-year-tour veteran. "So the birdies really helped."

Her 202 total was only two shots off the record for 54 holes, held jointly by Ruth Jessen and Carol Mann.

Council handicap at Ak

Omaha — The $25,000-added His Majesty's Council Handicap and the $25,000-added King's Handicap highlight the Memorial Day weekend at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Council Handicap on Saturday is the next step for three-year-olds prepping for the $100,000-added Omaha Gold Cup on July 9. For some, it will be their first try at a route as the race is at a mile and 70 yards.

Racing Secretary John Maluvius has assigned top weight of 120 pounds to J.J. Battle who has finished third here in two sprint races. He has started nine times this year with two wins, three seconds and three thirds. The only time he was off the board was in the $100,000-added Arkansas Derby at Oaklawn Park.

Emmerson J., a surprise winner in the $25,000-added Ambassadors' Handicap here on May 14, is second at 118 pounds.

Trainer Louis Brandt is expected to send Dazoc Stable's Son Gary into his first stakes engagement this year. Son Gary has won three straight, including two races at a mile and 70 yards. He has been assigned 117 pounds.

Lincoln banker elected state Jaycees president

Omaha (AP) — Larry Traudt, a Lincoln banker, was elected president of the Nebraska Jaycees Sunday.

Traudt was named to the 1977-78 post at the end of the Jaycees' convention in Omaha.

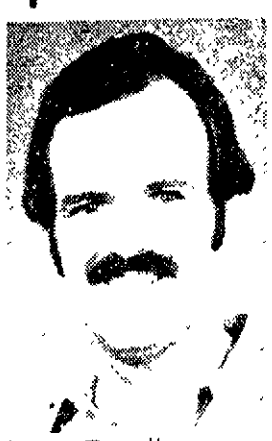

Traudt defeated Dr. Bob Glandt, Scottsbluff dentist.

Millard was named the top Jaycee chapter in the state based on last year's performance.

The Elkhorn Jaycees were named the top chapter in the parade of chapters, awarded on a point system.

The Charles Thone award for outstanding district director went to Len Fogelsen of Bloomfield.

The Rex Haberman award was given to Jeff Swanson of Wakefield as the outstanding regional director, and Jack Ahrens of Elkhorn was chosen as the outstanding local president in Nebraska.

Larry Traudt
. . . fills 1977-78 post.

Thone agrees to meet with Hickman's board

Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., has agreed to meet with the village board of Hickman to discuss problems resulting from a low-income housing development next door to the town. No date has been set.

The Farmers Home Administration has financed some 80 houses in the C. G. Smith development called Wagon Train Heights.

Hickman Village Board chairman David Hunter Friday accused Thone of "a cover-up of blunders and stupidity" of the FmHA.

Hunter said he has been asking Thone since last November for a response to what he considers questionable loan practices of the FmHA.

He said Thone's office told him there was no record of his correspondence having been received, but Hunter said he has "documented" evidence that it was received.

"Your Washington staff had literally lied to me," he told Thone in a letter Friday.

Hunter demanded that Thone and a representative of the FmHA meet with him in Hickman "to discuss the problems felt locally, statewide and nationally."

John Hanlon, Thone's Lincoln coordinator, declined to comment on Hunter's allegations.

"We're not going to argue with him; we don't want to debate," Hanlon said. "We're not hiding anything."

Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieves Pain & Itch.

... Gives prompt temporary relief from hemorrhoidal pain and itch in many cases.

Doctors have found a remarkably successful medication that actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues when infected and inflamed. And it does more. In many cases it gives relief for hours from pain and itching in these tissues. Tests by doctors proved this true in many cases.

The medication used was Preparation H. And no prescription is needed for Preparation H®. Ointment or suppositories.

Live and work in places tourists only visit.

When you enlist for Europe, you're there to do a job first, and frolic at the Oktoberfest second.
If you qualify, you can choose to learn a job in supply, missiles, aviation, infantry, artillery, armor, administration, maintenance, medical, or many other fields. And we'll guarantee it in writing before you enlist.
Once you get to Europe you'll earn a minimum of $374 a month before deductions
Then, besides your normal time off, you'll get 30 days paid vacation a year And that's plenty of time to see Europe

Get more miles for your money With the Peugeot 504 Diesel

The Peugeot 504 diesel runs on fuel that generally costs less than regular gasoline. And, diesel fuel produces more useable energy per gallon than gasoline, so you get better gas mileage.

According to EPA estimates, the Peugeot diesel gets 35 mpg on the highway and 27 mpg in the city. Of course, this depends on where and how you drive, car maintenance, optional equipment, etc.

The Peugeot 504 diesel is just the car you're looking for.
